Carmichael Hits Talmadge On Race Issue

James V. Carmichael, former state legislator, asserted last night Governor Talmadge is "carrying the race issue so far" in his reelection campaign that he has had the state guard notified that "race riots are on the verge of breaking out."

Speaking in behalf of the gubernatorial candidacy of Attorney General Ellis Arnall, the Marietta attorney added that Talmadge and "his henchmen are hoping and praying for an incident to help them in their despair."

"But," said Carmichael, "they won't fool the white people of Georgia."

He went on to declare that "all of this race talk is for the purpose of camouflage, to cover up the real issues," and then added that the Governor "has had Lindsey Camp, the former head of his military storm troops who ruled Georgia for four years under Gene with bayonets and guns, send out a letter to the state guard."

This letter, Carmichael said, states "that race riots are on the verge of breaking out, that rape and murder are stalking the state, that it isn't safe for our women to walk on our streets, and the state guard should be ready for trouble on a minute's notice."

Asserting the letter "was pure politics" and "not in the line of military duty," Carmichael said, "rest assured that if there is trouble Gene will be at the root of it."

As for Talmadge's "talks about placing Negroes in our white schools," Carmichael said, "he knows the white people now rule and will always rule Georgia. His talk about there being danger of Negroes being placed in our white schools is ridiculous, absurd and preposterous."

"It deserves the contempt of every person who has sense enough to get out of a shower of rain."

In his prepared address, Carmichael said that Talmadge, by his race talk, hoped to divert the people from asking him about the discrediting of the University system, "the pardon racket, the number of people on the pay roll and the vast amount of money he is collecting from the overburdened and oppressed taxpayers of the state."

Vice chairman of the house economy committee during the ad-

The flames broke out at noon today in the menagerie tent, just as the hands were gathering for lunch.

There were 18 cages and rows of tethered beasts.

Big John Sabo, the menagerie superintendent, shouted and the animal men came running. In 15 agonizing minutes the tent had burned, cages were charred, the screams of gaged "cats" had heralded their fierce death, and the rout of elephants, zebras and camels had subsided to a tense quiet.

Dr. J. J. Henderson, the circus veterinarian, turning with a grimace from the quivering body of a camel which had just been destroyed by a merciful shot, counted the loss. So did big John, nervously bossing the removal of a charred wagon.

John Ringling North heard their reports, and said that upwards of two score animals were dead. "Others may have to be destroyed. There is a puma that is suffering," he said. A few minutes later a shot ended the puma's life.

North tentatively estimated the loss at $200,000. He said a fire officer had told him he believed sparks from a train, passing by on the lakefront, had started the blaze.

The animals killed by fire or destroyed by the guns of quickly gathering police and coast guardsmen included two elephants, 10 camels, eight zebras, five lions, two tigers, three deer, two Indian donkeys, two brindle gnus, two giraffes and the puma.

The performing animals, the big top, the horses and the gorillas Gargantua and Toto were unharmed.

Fed by straw and sawdust, and spreading like a flash across the canvas and the big painted wagons, the flames seared the cages.

Britain Puzzled By Parliament's Secret Meeting

LONDON, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Parliament held an unheralded secret session today in which the government may have dealt with the implications of the Russian military position and British plans to give further aid to the hard-pressed Russians.

There was no inkling of what was discussed or of why the reversal from the government stand taken last week when Sir Stafford Cripps told commons the government had "intentions" regarding a second front, but there would be no secret session to discuss those intentions or other matters.

Today's closed session was called without previous notice when Cripps, lord privy seal and government spokesman in the house, announced that a private statement would be made by Clement R. Attlee, dominions secretary and deputy prime minister.

After Attlee gave his statement, commons in public session opened the way for establishment of American military courts throughout the British Isles by passing the "United States of America (visiting forces) bill."

The unprecedented measure placing the American forces in Britain outside the jurisdiction of British courts went to the king for assent after sharp criticism was voiced by a few members.

The bill provides that American soldier defendants shall be tried henceforth by their own military courts. The British government thus gave up the age-old right to try any case regardless of the nationality of the accused.

Home Secretary Morrison's promise that American punishments would be "no less severe" than the British, was answered by the criticism that it was not the bill itself, but the manner in which it had been requested by Washington.

Rear Admiral Beamish, conservative member, declared Washington's request for jurisdiction over American soldiers billeted in this country was an ultimatum.

Churchill in Russia, According to Berlin

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Following up its unsupported story of last Saturday about "unconfirmed rumors" of a Churchill-Stalin meeting, German propaganda interpreted today's secret session of the British parliament as indirect confirmation that the British prime minister had been in Russia for several days.

Berlin's expedient was to use a Stockholm dateline for a broadcast crediting such a belief to Swedish newspapermen in London.

"Although nothing seeped out thus far on the contents of the statement Attlee made," the German transoceanic agency said, "it is believed in London quarters that this statement dealt exclusively with Churchill's latest journey and his negotiations with Stalin."

"It is also believed that Roosevelt's special envoy, Bullitt, who has completely disappeared, has participated in these negotiations."

London Accuses Gandhi Of 'Courting' Tokyo Favor

German Night Raiders Bomb English Towns

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—German night raiders dropped high explosive bombs at one point in southern England early today.

During Tuesday Nazi raiders damaged two English towns in scattered attacks, and British Spitfire fighter-bombers struck swiftly at the Calais area of occupied France.

LONDON, Wednesday, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Several German radio stations went off the air last night, indicating British air raids, although the announcer on the Deutschlandsender station said the closing was "for technical reasons."

AMERICAN PRISONERS.

TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasts), Aug. 4.—(AP)—Ten British and American Army and Navy officers have arrived at the war prisoners' camp of Zentsuji on the south Japanese island of Shikoku, a Domei dispatch said today.

54 Jap Planes Downed by One U. S. Squadron

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—A single squadron of Navy fighter pilots was credited officially today with having shot down 54 Japanese planes and probably shot down 18 others to help win the great air-sea battles of Coral Sea and Midway. The squadron lost only four planes, two to enemy fighters and two which ran out of gas.

In reporting the squadron's score the Navy said it was made in four actions—one in the Coral sea and three at Midway.

Among the enemy planes reported as certainly shot down were at least 22 Japanese Zero planes, the enemy's best fighter. The Zero is lighter and has a faster climb than the American planes, but the American planes have more armor protection and fire power.

In a sense, therefore, the single squadron's fighting record was regarded as one measure of the relative merits of the Japanese craft and its grumman "wildcat" opposition as well as of the combat skill of Japanese and American pilots.

After participating in the Coral Sea battle the fighter pilots were transferred to the aircraft carrier Yorktown, where they formed Fighting Squadron No. 3.

It was his squadron which last February brought down 16 of 18 Jap bombers attacking an American carrier in the western Pacific.

The Navy gave this account of the exploits of the group:

In the Coral Sea battle they shot down 28 Japanese planes, 14 of which were "Zero" fighters. They probably bagged seven other planes.

All three of the squadron's Midway actions, a month later, occurred on the same day, June 4.

In the first of these, six fighters from Squadron 3 were intercepted by 20 Japanese "Zeros." The Japs lost eight fighters.

In the second Midway action, the Japs made a divebombing attack on the Yorktown (which was eventually put out of action) with 18 bombers protected by 18 "Zero" fighters. Squadron 3 planes broke up their assault "so successfully," the Navy said, that only four enemy planes were dropped.

In the third action of the day, 18 enemy torpedo bombers and 18 Zero fighters made another attack on the Yorktown and again Squadron 3 went to work with such effectiveness that only five enemy planes got through to their objective.

All-India Committee Branded 'Appeasers'

NEW DELHI, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The British government charged today that the great majority of the all-India Congress Working Committee are appeasers of Japan and that the Nationalist leader, Mohandas K. Gandhi, favors prompt negotiations with Japan for the independent India he seeks to establish now.

The government cited documents seized in a raid on the All-India Congress party's headquarters at Allahabad, in particular the original draft of a resolution put forward by Gandhi advocating that Indians wage a campaign of civil disobedience to win immediate freedom from British rule.

Gandhi admitted the substance of the charges, but said he had taken his position for bargaining purposes.

"Purely British Act."

Such a resolution was eventually adopted by the working committee and is to be voted upon by the party in a momentous meeting this Friday, but the approved resolution, supported by the more moderate Pandit Jawahar Lal Nehru, omitted references advocating direct co-operation with Japan.

Gandhi's proposed resolution stated in part:

"Japan's quarrel is not with India. She is warring against the British empire. India's participation in the war has not been with the consent of representatives of the Indian people. It was a purely British act."

"If India were freed, her first step would probably be to negotiate with Japan."

"This committee desires to assure the Japanese government and people that India bears no enmity either towards Japan or towards any other nation. India only desires freedom from all alien domination."

Gandhi warns Japs.

"But in this fight for freedom, the committee is of the opinion that India, while welcoming universal sympathy, does not stand in need of foreign military aid."

"India will attain her freedom through her nonviolent strength, and will retain it likewise. Therefore the committee hopes that Japan will not have any designs on India."

"But if Japan attacks India and Britain makes no response to its appeal, the committee would expect all those who look to the Congress for guidance to offer complete nonviolent nonco-operation to the Japanese forces, and not to render any assistance to them."

Valiant Reds Unable To Stem Blitz Tide In Caucasus Fighting

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

MOSCOW, Wednesday, Aug. 5.—German troops have made another 50-mile advance in the Caucasus to threaten Tikhoretsk, an important junction on the Soviet railway system, and also have gained in the Don river elbow northwest of Stalingrad, the Russians announced early today.

Driving southwest of Salsk along the severed Stalingrad-Krasnodar railway, the Nazis have reached Belaya Glina, and their apparent goal is Tikhoretsk, another 50 miles away.

Seizure of Tikhoretsk would outflank the Russian Army still fighting the Nazis at Kuschchevka, 50 miles to the north, and enable the Germans to control large segments of Russian railways in the western Caucasus.

German reserves succeeded in punching a hole in Soviet positions in the Don river elbow some 80 miles northwest of Stalingrad.

"In the Kletschka area and south of it," the midnight communiqué said, "our troops repulsed many enemy attacks and inflicted many blows on the enemy."

"Fighting in a large populated place has been in progress for several days. In one sector the tanks of our unit attacking enemy infantry crushed with their caterpillars 270 German officers and men."

"The Germans threw in many reserves and only at the cost of heavy losses pressed back somewhat our troops."

The push to Belaya Glina represents a 125-mile thrust into the Caucasus by the Nazi salient which crossed the Don near Nikolaevsk, bridged the Manych river to reach Salsk, then turned southwestward toward Tikhoretsk.

"In the area of Belaya Glina," the communiqué related, "our troops fought heavy defensive engagements against superior numbers of enemy tanks and motorized infantry. The Germans are sustaining heavy losses."

Already threatened with encirclement, the Russians in the Kuschchevka area were falling back slightly under a German drive southward along the Rostov-Tikhoretsk-Baku railway.

Nazi Might Tells.

"In the Kuschchevka area," the bulletin said, "the German Fascist troops continuously attack our defense lines. Most of the attacks are repulsed. In one sector only the enemy succeeded in pushing forward. Fierce fighting with varying success continues in the area of a populated place."

Cossack cavalrymen equipped with modern weapons were in the thick of the Caucasian fight, but the tone of the Russian communiqué made it only too evident that the German mechanized might was far superior to the Cossack cavalry.

All attempts to cross the stream in the Kletschka region were declared repulsed and on the lower Don, near Tsimlyansk, German forces which poured across bridgeheads apparently were contained in a pocket on the south bank.

The gallant Cossacks—many of whom had grandsons at the front—were yielding ground in their beloved homeland only after struggling, the freshly harvested steppes around Salsk with Fascist dead, but courage and stoic disregard for death was hardly a match for the mechanized might of Hitler.

Reds Admit Retreat.

Of the Salsk fighting, 100 miles southeast of Rostov, the Russian communiqué at midday said: "Soviet troops were forced to fall back to new positions after repulsing fierce enemy attacks."

The Caucasus was the most critical zone along the 2,000-mile battlefront, because German troops were nearing the Maikop oil fields, which produce 7 per cent of Russian petroleum, and were striking hard for the derricks of Grozny, which yield another 3 per cent or more. The vast Baku pools near the Caspian were more than 600 miles away. These producers of 75 to 80 per cent of Russian oil were protected by the towering Caucasus mountains.

(The Germans said they had captured Voroshilovsk, 180 miles southeast of Rostov and almost midway to Grozny, and reached the wide Kuma river, 80 miles north of Maikop at several points. Russian defenses east of the Sea of Azov were declared broken. German and Rumanian troops, which crossed the Don at Tsimlyansk, were said to be driving farther eastward toward Stalingrad. In the Don bend the Nazis said the Russians continued unsuccessful attacks.)

In the Don elbow, dispatches said a German unit of many tanks lunged through the front line defense of Kletschka several days ago and reached the Don banks. The Germans were reported almost immediately surrounded.

Atlanta Women Find Building Planes Fascinating

Women clad in slacks and smitten with a determination to do something about this war are winding up for a terrific wallop at the Axis powers as they go about the job of learning to build bombers down at 165 Central avenue and out at Lakewood park.

U. S. Fliers Aid Chinese Attack Jap Stronghold

Linchwan Surrounded Following Pounding by Skyfighters.

CHUNGKING, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Chinese assault troops surrounded the Japanese-held stronghold of Linchwan (Fuchow) and stormed to its very walls today after the invaders' defenses were pounded hard by the United States bombers in China.

A Chinese spokesman said the American raid yesterday had been of invaluable aid to the attack since the Chinese forces lacked the heavy equipment to batter down the defenses of the city in central Kiangsi province.

Lieutenant General Stilwell's headquarters announced that quarter-ton explosives smashed Japanese barracks and blasted to bits docks and waterfront installations along the Fu river through the city.

One 550-pound bomb was said to have crashed directly upon the Japanese headquarters.

Fighter pilots guarding the bomber formation machine-gunned river craft and damaged two Japanese transports.

Returning fliers said they saw Chinese ground forces driving in upon the Japanese.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's high command announced that Huwan, 12 miles southeast of Linchwan, was recaptured from the Japanese a few hours after the bombing and the Chinese forces smashed on to the southern and western gates of Linchwan.

Other Japanese forces hemmed in east of Kwangfeng, in eastern Kiangsi province, were reported virtually wiped out.

In Chekiang province to the east, however, Japanese troops drove the Chinese from Sungyang in a thrust 25 miles west of Lishui, Japanese-held airport city.

For the time being they've swapped their powder puffs for a handful of aircraft tools and are making a few revisions on that old line about a woman's place being in the home.

Working side by side with the men, they're proving that bomber construction can be glamorized without the loss of efficiency and in some cases are showing up the males—supposedly the harder of the species.

200 Enrolled.
And you'd better not make any cracks about these women being out of their places either if you don't want to come out with your upper lip riveted to your front teeth.

About 200 of these modern Joan of Arcs are enrolled at the Fulton County Training Center at 165 Central avenue. They study aircraft fabrication, riveting, assembly and inspection.

They range in ages all the way from 18 to 50. There are two grandmothers in the lot. Their course runs for eight weeks and the first group will be graduated a week from Friday.

Pretty Dot Fuller stood at a drill press punching holes in a piece of metal. She was one of a few who haven't given up skirts for slacks.

Likes Work.
"I think it's wonderful," she said. "I'd much rather do this than housework or office work. I believe I like punching these holes best of all."

Miss Lucile Smith put down her electric hand drill and came over to join the crowd. She, too, declared she was getting a tremendous kick out of learning to do something rugged with her hands.

The deafening chatter of riveting machines almost drowned out the voice of Mrs. Kay Moeller as she told of how she expected to use her training to get a job and then put all of her earnings into war bonds and stamps.

One after another these women trainees agreed they had a feeling of confidence in the future because they were getting ready to help in the battle of production.

Night Classes.
Approximately 800 men and women are enrolled in the Fulton county training center. Those in the day classes begin at 8 o'clock in the morning and quit at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

In addition, there are two classes at night—one from 5 to 8 o'clock and the other from 8 to 11. These are essentially for persons who work during the day. They require 12 weeks for completion.

R. S. Connatser, riveting instructor, had nothing but praise for the way the women are going about their training. On the whole, he said they apply themselves better than the men because they seem to have a keener desire to learn a specific skill. They sometimes work right on through their rest periods, he pointed out.

M. D. Mobley, of the state division of vocational education and supervisor of the entire bomber training program, has been advised by Washington officials that this program is exceeding their expectations.

REPORTS AT SCHOOL.
MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Aug. 4. Aviation Cadet Emory S. Cook, student bombardier, has reported at the Air Force Advanced Flying school at Albuquerque, N. M. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emory S. Cook, of this city, and is a graduate of the Georgia Military College.

THIS IS WAR—Pretty Dot Fuller stands at a drill press punching holes in a piece of metal. She is one of the 200 girls and women training for war work at the Fulton county training center, 165 Central avenue. They'll soon be building bombers at the Bell bomber plant, or maybe some other gigantic bomber plant.

BOMBER'S FOR TOKYO—Miss Lucile Smith and an instructor go over the construction of an airplane wing at the Lakewood Park training school. Miss Smith soon will be working on government orders for big bombers. She hopes that some of the planes she makes will bomb Tokyo, Berlin or maybe Rome.

Talmadge Rule Given 'Autopsy' At Eatonton

Arnall and F. S. Batchelor Blast Governor Before Putnam Throng.

By LAMAR Q. BALL, Constitution Staff Writer.

EATONTON, Ga., Aug. 4.—Men and women packed into the Putnam county courthouse today and applauded a skilled autopsy of the Talmadge administration by two experienced political scientists from Georgia, Ellis Arnall, candidate for Governor, and F. S. Batchelor, a patriarch of the Georgia legislature.

Batchelor, in introducing Arnall to the home folks of Eatonton and environs, blasted forth a simple, unanswerable declaration of what's wrong with Georgia's state government under the present administration.

"I liked," said Batchelor, "a recent article by Ralph McGill in The Atlanta Constitution. It was headed simply: 'The Same Old Talmadge.' I have long believed that I should never attempt to assail the faults of a political opponent, but this situation in Georgia today calls for no less than that. So, in introducing Ellis Arnall, I'll choose as my text the thought of Ralph McGill, 'The Same Old Talmadge.'"

Same Old Talmadge.
An elderly man who has spent much of his long life as a political leader in Putnam county, Batchelor struck out:

"He's the same old Talmadge who laid a wreath on the tomb of Abraham Lincoln and said he wished we had a man like him in the White House today. He didn't mean to praise Lincoln, he was condemning the present occupant of the White House.

"He's the same old Talmadge who pardoned 5,000 Georgia convicts in one year.

"He's the same old Talmadge who called the CCC boys 'just a crowd of poor boys and bums.'

"He's the same old Talmadge who vetoed the old-age pension. He's the same old Talmadge who vetoed free school books and the seven-month school term.

"He's the same old Talmadge who fought our chief executive for four years and blocked any effort in Georgia to match federal funds. In that act alone he cost the state millions of dollars.

"He's the same old Talmadge who collected from the taxpayers last year $12,000,000 more than he spent and now says he has a surplus of $9,000,000 in the banks. I want to know where is that other $3,000,000.

Recalling the Past.

"He's the same old Talmadge who tossed the comptroller general and the state treasurer out of office at the point of bayonets.

"He's the Talmadge who brought our university system before the people of the state in a false light.

"Bishop Ainsworth, before his death, warned against the ghastly thought of a race issue in Georgia politics. The bishop declared that thought had no basis in fact and that it was an untruth. I'd believe Bishop Ainsworth before I'd believe a Talmadge.

"Dr. Harmon Caldwell, just the other day, said there was no truth in the Talmadge charge of an effort to foster social equality be-

MAKE 'EM STURDY—Mrs. Edna Reynolds and Mrs. Edna Kraar go in for heavier labor. They are learning to handle a riveting machine. R. S. Connatser, riveting instructor, says women sometimes apply themselves better than men. They are keen to learn a specific skill, he adds, and frequently work through the lunch hour.

Non-Political Reason for Red Suspenders Revealed in Butts

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

EATONTON, Ga., Aug. 4.—"I've run across my second pair of red suspenders since this campaign started," said Ellis Arnall today. "The first man told me frankly about 10 days ago that he was going to vote for my opponent.

"I found this second man yesterday in Jackson, down in Butts county. He had on a pair of those red suspenders, with name of my opponent sewed or crocheted in them.

"I walked up to him, shook hands and said: 'I am Ellis Arnall, I want your support for my election.' The man smiled, tugged at his red suspenders, took me by the arm and confided:

"I don't want you to think that I'm for this man Talmadge. This just happens to be the only pair of suspenders I own and I've got to hold up my pants."

tween the two races, and I believe Dr. Caldwell.

"The real issue," said Batchelor, "is that the people of Georgia must do away with a dictator and put the state back into the hands of the legislature and the voters.

"If we keep this man, we won't need a legislature. Why waste money to create and assemble a legislature, if this man is to run the affairs of the state as he pleases."

The crowd was aroused against Talmadge when Arnall stepped forward to be introduced and the applause that greeted the attorney general was more than the polite acceptance of a visitor to Eatonton.

Arnall challenged Talmadge to discuss openly his campaign plans for cleaning up the pardon and parole racket in Georgia.

Pardon Racket.
"I ask them," cried Arnall, "What are you going to do about it?"

He pictured the present system of handling paroles and pardons, gia to judge the merits of those pardons and paroles."

The Putnam county courthouse crowd found women in the majority and they applauded and smiled their approval as Arnall outlined the reforms he planned in Georgia government.

They cheered as Arnall said: "I have tried to get my opposition to answer a simple question: What will you do about Georgia's schools? But I can get no answer. They dodge that real issue and continue to inject their fake issues and raise a clamor about the worthiness of persons who are not in this race. Your present Governor is campaigning against dozens of persons who are not a part of this issue. He can't beat Ellis Arnall, so he is trying to find someone he can beat."

Mayor John L. Adams presided over the meeting at Eatonton. Later at Sandersville, Arnall said if he is elected governor he would appoint capable men to office "although I am not committed today to a single man."

"They're charging that I'll make some bad appointments," he said.

F.D.R. Bestows Hero Medal on John Bulkeley

Young Mosquito Boat Skipper's Bravery Is Rewarded.

(Picture on Page One.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—President Roosevelt personally bestowed the Congressional Medal of Honor today on a young Navy lieutenant commander, John D. Bulkeley, for his daring exploits as commander of a motor torpedo boat squadron for four months in Philippine waters.

It was Bulkeley and the men of his mosquito boat squadron who eluded the Japanese and evacuated General MacArthur and President Manuel Quezon of the Philippines from beleaguered Corregidor Island. But the citation accompanying the award of the nation's highest military honor did not even mention this.

Bulkeley won the medal, instead, for operations "believed to be without precedent" in damaging or destroying "a notable number of Japanese enemy planes, surface combatant and merchant ships and in dispersing landing parties and land-based enemy forces during the four months and eight days of operation without benefit of repairs, overhaul or maintenance facilities."

The citation spoke of Bulkeley's "dynamic forcefulness and daring" in offensive action, his brilliancy in planning and executing attacks, his resourcefulness and ingenuity, and said these qualities, along with a complete disregard for his personal safety, reflected great credit upon him and the naval service.

The medal was presented to Bulkeley in the President's office at the White House.

The Navy disclosed only today that Bulkeley was advanced July 10 to the rank of lieutenant commander for "meritorious service."

House Group To Reveal Oil, Rubber Data

Findings To Be Presented to Congressional Delegation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(P)—A special house committee investigating the gasoline-fuel oil-synthetic rubber problem in the east planned today to present its findings at a conference with the congressional delegations from the New England and Middle Atlantic states.

Chairman Fitzgerald, Democrat, Connecticut, and Vice Chairman Hartley, Republican, New Jersey, indicated that more witnesses were to be heard, however.

House Majority Leader McCormack, Democrat, Massachusetts, and Minority Leader Martin, Republican, Massachusetts, will be asked to bring together the various delegations in the hope of obtaining united support for any legislative proposals that might be considered desirable.

At a committee hearing today, Arthur E. Pew Jr., vice president of the Houdry Process Corporation and of the Sun Oil Company, charged that the "bottleneck" in the synthetic rubber program was Rubber Reserve Company, a government agency.

Pew estimated that if the Houdry process was adopted for the manufacture of synthetic rubber, about 800,000 tons a year would be in production at the end of nine months.

He testified that Rubber Reserve had suddenly shut off investigation of the process and that "we have taken the position that Rubber Reserve turned us down."

"To all practical purposes, they have," he asserted.

"They have adopted a program, and despite figures and facts they have refused to change it," the witness said.

Hartley told Pew that Rubber Reserve had "frozen you out up to this moment."

A Houdry plant, Pew said, could be built "with substantially less critical materials than any other petroleum process."

Murphy Urges Internment in Venereal Cases

City Attorney Defends
Right To Hold Women
Suspects.

Venereal diseases are destroying more American soldiers than Nazi and Jap guns, Assistant City Attorney Charlie J. Murphy, defending the city's right to intern women suspected of being infected, yesterday told Judge Virlyn B. Moore, of Fulton county superior court.

Murphy's statement came after Judge Moore had remanded one woman to the custody of Police Chief Horsey after city laboratory tests showed she was diseased, and had freed another under a writ of habeas corpus.

Frank Grizzard and Frank Bowers, attorneys for the women, claimed the city had no right to hold them until physical examinations showed them free of infection.

Although the court sustained the city's right to intern infected persons for treatment, it left unsettled the right of the city to hold suspects without bond pending outcome of physical examinations, observers said. The point was not touched on in the decision of the court, and it was said in the courtroom that another habeas corpus petition has been filed and will be heard this afternoon.

Grizzard announced that if the issue is not settled, he will file another petition to test the authority of the city health department to hold suspects without bond.

Bentley Quits Legislative Race

W. R. Bentley, Atlanta attorney, announced yesterday his withdrawal from the Fulton county race for representative because of business and because of his application for Army Air Force duty. He was opposing Paul Etheridge Jr., incumbent.

"Since I am subject to call upon a day's notice," Bentley stated, "I don't feel I should run for office, as I believe my call for active duty will be forthcoming shortly and, if elected, I would probably have to resign soon after taking office."

Bentley expressed his appreciation for "the support and encouragement that my friends have given me thus far in my campaign."

Coast Guards Celebrate Their 152d Anniversary

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(P)—War put a crimp in the celebration today of the Coast Guard's 152d birthday, but individual Coast Guard bases fitted observances into their war duties.

For men at sea, the day meant little more than an extra fancy menu at the mess table.

The international lifeboat races formerly held at New York on the anniversary were cancelled but several Coast Guard stations, particularly at New York and Curtis Bay, Md., planned small boat races.

CIO, AFL Agree To Consider Merging Into One Huge Unit

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations agreed today to consider merging their forces in one huge unit at a historic peace parley.

Talmadge Man Boomed Lustily In Rally Here

Reuben Garland Attempts To Put in Word for Governor.

Reuben A. Garland, Talmadge supporter, was met with lusty boos yesterday afternoon when he attempted to put in a word for the Governor at a meeting of the Fulton County Committee to Restore Education in Georgia. The meeting was held in the Piedmont hotel.

After hearing educational and business leaders reaffirm that the state educational system can be saved only by ousting Governor Talmadge at the polls this fall, Garland leaped to his feet. "The history and tradition of this state was put on trial by the newspapers because Talmadge fired a college professor," he cried. "I do not believe the University System can be destroyed."

Donations to Cause. Committee members and alumni of the university system, paused from signing checks as donations to keep the state committee functioning and to help finance the Student Political League's fight against the re-election of Governor Talmadge.

"Listen to me before you sign these checks," Garland shouted. "Talmadge saved the university system last March 3, when he gave $3,000,000 to the schools."

Boos from the audience drowned out the speaker, and Rutherford L. Ellis, co-chairman of the committee, rapped for order.

G. Starr Peck, Atlanta attorney, charged that Garland's appearance "was merely to discredit the meeting" and called for a vote on whether or not the audience believed the Governor would save the university system. Not a person agreed with Garland.

Just before Garland spoke Pope F. Brock, attorney and member of the Fulton committee, made a blistering attack upon Talmadge.

Worse Than Sherman. "About 78 years ago General Sherman disrupted the hopes of the university and Georgia," Brock declared. "But I don't have to tell you that Sherman was not half as dangerous to the university system as the man who calls himself Governor of this state."

"It is up to us to decide whether we want to accept a pair of dirty, red galluses instead of a fair chance in the business world for our girls and boys."

Others speaking for the university system included George Marchmont, graduate of Georgia Tech; W. Colquitt Carter, graduate of the University of Georgia; Miss Lucia Rooney, graduate of the Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville, and Frank Spratt, co-chairman of the Fulton committee.

War Workers

Need Icebox

Because they have no means of securing cool water down at the headquarters of the Atlanta Red Cross chapter, volunteer workers issued a plea yesterday for the donation of an electric refrigerator or a water cooler. Thousands of women are working each week in the Red Cross work rooms on essential war work and cool water is really needed, the appeal said.

Anyone having an ice box, refrigerator or water cooler that could be donated is asked to call Atwood 1601.

A conference to study steps to close the seven-year gap between them and to bring approximately 11,000,000 workers under a single standard became assured when AFL President William Green announced the federation's standing peace committee was ready to meet a similar group appointed by CIO President Philip Murray.

The AFL chief reported the date and site of the meeting would be fixed by members of the committees, expressed the hope that the negotiations would be finished this fall and stated he was confident "the conferees will be able to reach a settlement fair to all concerned."

Organic Unity. From both camps came clarification of the objective of the forthcoming conference—organic unity. Green interpreted it to mean "the merging of the two organizations" into one, the setting up of one national labor movement, clothed with authority to speak for the organized workers of the nation. A Murray aide who asked omission of his name defined it as a "merger into a single organization."

If the AFL, claiming 6,000,000 members, and the CIO, claiming 5,000,000 adherents, reunite, it would raise the question of what, if anything, John Lewis would do. Lewis, head of the United Mine workers, bolted the AFL in 1935 and set up the CIO. There have been reports that Lewis, at odds with Murray, would withdraw his union from the CIO.

Green asserted re-establishment of unity between the CIO and AFL would be the "greatest single contribution" both could make to "the success of the war effort."

Benefits Cited. He added: "It will eliminate division, discord and jurisdictional strife. It will expedite war production. It will permit labor to speak with a single and more effective voice both in protecting the social and industrial interests of workers today and when world peace is finally negotiated."

The AFL and CIO engaged in peace parleys in 1937 and 1939, but conferences were broken off each time. Green stated the problem now was complicated "by the passage of years and the organization of dual unions operating in the same fields" and pointed out "many different jurisdictional questions will have to be solved before an overall peace can be reached."

AFL Spokesmen. Three vice presidents will speak for the AFL. They are Harry C. Bates, of the Bricklayers' Union; Daniel Tobin, of the Teamsters' Union; and William L. Hutchison, of the Carpenters' Union.

The convention of the United Automobile Workers Union, CIO affiliate which claims to be the largest labor unit in the nation, urged unity between the CIO and AFL and suggested also that the railroad brotherhoods join the united front.

The delegates adopted a resolution condemning "the disruptive, anti-labor and anti-war activities of John L. Lewis."

Autoists Warned About Tire Wear

At the present rate of driving, almost 4,600 automobile tires are wearing out every hour of the day and night, the Office of War Information revealed yesterday, and by this time next year half the cars running will be laid up for lack of tires unless the driving habits of motorists change drastically within the next few months.

Figures released by OWI show tires wearing out at the rate of 110,000 a day or 40,000,000 tires a year—a rate of consumption which has hardly been cut down at all since Pearl Harbor.

NUMBER, PLEASE?—Mrs. Sarah F. Clarke, telephone supervisor at Lawson General hospital, instructs Beatrice Knight in the dark and mysterious ways of switchboard manipulation at the new five-position switchboard which handles over 10,000 calls a day out at Army's Lawson General hospital, near Chamblee.

Lawson Installs New Facilities For Phone Calls

New Switchboard Can Handle 10,000 a Day.

You push the first valve down; the conversation goes round and round—only now, there are many more valves to punch than the proverbial three of the old ditty. Out at Lawson General hospital they have installed a new switchboard that can handle more than 10,000 calls per day.

The new five-position board, installed this week, was put into operation because the two women on the old two-position board nearly had nervous prostration trying to handle all the telephone calls that came in over 15 trunk lines and 238 extensions.

Now the personnel has expanded from two to nine girls, some of whom have served as long distance operators with the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company. Although the girls are not overworked, there is still no leisure time, according to Miss Lois Crew, who, with Miss Gertrude Stallings, has been busy for the last two weeks compiling a telephone directory of the hospital.

The work, which turned out to be a tome of 38 pages, was supervised by Mrs. Sarah F. Clarke, of Stone Mountain, Ga., telephone supervisor.

Although the capacity of the new switchboard is the seemingly infinite number of 500 phones, still the demand for new phones increases. According to Mrs. Clarke, the first civilian employee at Lawson, an order for 30 new phones to augment the present number of 350 already has been put in.

In order to relieve the communications jam, "please don't call the hospital unless it is absolutely necessary," pleaded Mrs. Clarke.

"Although we don't connect civilian employees with personal calls, there are still more calls to come in than we can handle."

Mrs. Clarke gave another telephone tip to those who find it necessary to phone the hospital. "Don't call the switchboard and ask to speak to John Doe. Specify whether he is a non-commissioned officer, a patient, or a commanding officer."

Contract Efforts On Wood Pushed

A co-ordination of efforts to secure government contracts for southern furniture manufacturers was announced here yesterday by regional WPB officials.

J. H. Barnett, chief of the Regional War Production Board woodwork section, said the effort would be directed by H. Rufus Martin, of High Point, N. C., recently appointed principal industrial specialist of the section.

Barnett explained that new government specifications require replacement of steel with wood in many articles and said steps expedite the award of contracts to manufacturers in the region, especially for such articles needed in southern military establishments, would be accelerated.

Fitting ceremonies marked the removal of the tanks. Mayor Edward Murray, Salvage Chairman Joe Flournoy and E. Owen Smith, whose grandfather fashioned the two cannon at the Selma arsenal in the last days of the War Between the States, were on the program.

The salvaging of the two cannon mark a real sacrifice of the people of Columbus, who they have long been a landmark. The cannon were mounted on the gunboat Chattahoochee, which was built in Columbus and destroyed by federal forces under General J. H. Wilson on April 16, 1865.

They were recovered from the Chattahoochee river in 1910 and placed in the custody of the late G. Gunby Jordan by the United States Army Department. BUSY FINGERS—The efficient hands of the nine switchboard operators at Lawson General hospital push this plug in and pull that plug out all day long at the hospital's new switchboard, which is always rushed with calls. The board has a capacity of 500 phones, although there are only 350 at the hospital now.

Pacific Ports 5 Seamen Die Seen for Latin As Nazis Sink Export Cargo 2 More Ships

Government Warns Shippers of Impending Changes in Routes.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(P)—The government told exporters today that future shipments of war goods and other vital materials to Latin America and the United Nations would be "directed to the least congested ports."

It may be necessary to route commodities from ports other than those nearest the point of origin or present locations of materials licensed for export," the Board of Economic Warfare announced.

Exporters were advised to make arrangements with buyers to cover additional costs of overland hauls across the continent if the government export and transportation controls require that shipments be made from Pacific ports rather than from Atlantic or Gulf ports.

"It was suggested," the board added, "that all adjustments be made immediately in order to meet any redirection of shipments without delay or confusion. This procedure will assure the most available shipping space for the most essential goods."

2 Massive Cannon, City Relics, Given as 'Scrap' at Columbus

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. COLUMBUS, Ga., Aug. 4.—Two massive cannon, relics of the War Between the States, were moved from Waverly Terrace this morning where they have stood for 32 years, and will be used as scrap iron for defense. The seven-ton Perret cannon will yield enough metal to construct a medium-sized tank, it is stated.

Fitting ceremonies marked the removal of the tanks. Mayor Edward Murray, Salvage Chairman Joe Flournoy and E. Owen Smith, whose grandfather fashioned the two cannon at the Selma arsenal in the last days of the War Between the States, were on the program.

51 Saved in Torpedos in Indian Ocean and Off South Africa.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. The Navy yesterday announced the sinking of two more Panamanian ships, one in the Indian ocean and the other off South Africa. Five seamen were killed and 51 rescued in the torpedos.

The sinkings were not included in the Associated Press tabulation of announced merchant losses in the western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor, that total standing at 411.

Twelve survivors of one of the craft, a small schooner, sheltered to the bottom of the South Atlantic off Africa June 2, reported that the attacking U-boat raked the deck with machinegunfire as they launched a single lifeboat. None of the crew was hit.

After the lifeboat was finally launched, the submarine drew alongside and its commander handed out four gallons of water and some cigars. The commander tensely refused a request that they be allowed to lie alongside the U-boat until daybreak. The raider then renewed its shelling of the schooner.

Alert Navy gunners aboard the other ship, a medium-sized merchantman, fired on the raider as its periscope broke water in the Indian ocean. The gunners missed, however, and a torpedo struck amidships.

Five seamen were lost in the attack, which occurred June 5, but 39 others, included the Navy crew, were rescued the same day by an Allied ship.

Emory To Name New 'Wheel' Editor

For the fourth time within the last 12 months a new editor for the Emory Wheel is to be named.

William Morris, a senior, yesterday tendered his resignation as editor of the student publication, stating he wished to devote more time to the Emory Nonfraternity Organization.

Leon Polstein, of Albany, managing editor, and runner-up in the last election for the editorship, was designated as acting editor. Martin Worthing and Rutherford Points also have served as editor of The Wheel during the past year.

Pelley Jurors Get Testimony Of Lindbergh

Flyer's Appearance Brief and Anti-Climactic at Sedition Trial.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 4.—(P)—The sedition trial of William Dudley Pelley and two associates, accused of seeking to interfere with the nation's war effort, neared an end today with the brief and somewhat anti-climactic appearance of Charles A. Lindbergh, called as a defense witness.

After the noted aviator and former America First leader testified that he had made no effort since the United States entered the war to learn the people's attitude, the defense announced it had no other witnesses immediately available, and Judge Robert C. Baltzell recessed the trial until tomorrow.

The defense apparently called Lindbergh in an effort to gain support of published articles in which Pelley had asserted that the American people were apathetic toward the war effort.

Before Pearl Harbor. After testifying that he believed "the majority of the people of this country were opposed to getting into war—that is, before we were attacked," Lindbergh was asked if he had sought to determine whether public opinion had changed since the attack. He answered: "No, sir, I have devoted my time and energy to doing what I can to help the war effort." (Earlier he had described himself as a consultant at the Ford bomber plant in Detroit.)

Lindbergh was on the stand only 15 minutes. There was no cross-examination by government attorneys. After he was excused, Oscar F. Smith, defense lawyer, announced that no other defense witnesses were on hand.

Judge Baltzell, ordering the recess until tomorrow, told the defense: "If your witnesses are not here then we will just have to go ahead. It would not be fair to hold the jury any longer."

Still under defense subpoena are Dr. Jacob Thorkelson, former Montana congressman, and Virgil Jordan, of New York, chairman of the National Industrial Conference Board. Rush D. Holt, former senator from West Virginia, was excused as a witness at his request.

Also excused as defense witnesses were three defense workers employed in salvage operations at Pearl Harbor after the Japanese attack. They were excused at the request of the Navy Department, agreed to dismiss the sixth count of the indictment, which charged that Pelley made a seditiously false statement about the damage wrought by the Japanese at Pearl Harbor.

Scores Turned Away. Dressed in a dark suit, Lindbergh crossed his long legs as he settled into the witness chair to undergo questioning by Floyd G. Christian of the defense staff. The courtroom was packed. Deputy marshals had turned away scores of spectators, mostly women.

"Are you the young man who flew across the Atlantic ocean?" was Christian's first question.

"Yes, sir," Lindbergh replied without smiling.

Christian led up to the flyer's activity in the America First movement, which opposed American's getting into the war, then asked:

"What did you advocate as the course of the United States?"

An objection by Oscar R. Ewing, special prosecutor, prevented Lindbergh's replying.

After completing his testimony Lindbergh visited with Judge Baltzell in the latter's office and later was introduced to attorneys in the case and newsmen. The reporters were his guests at lunch.

Canada Raises Cost of Living Bonus Payment

Increase of 1.2 Points in Official Index Announced.

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.—(Canadian Press)—An increase of 1.2 points in the adjusted cost of living index, announced today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, will put extra money in the average Canadian's pay envelope after August 15.

The index is the basis of calculation for compulsory cost-of-living bonuses payable to Canadians in commerce or industry.

The increase of 1.2 points will generally mean a 60-cent boost in the bonus now paid, except in the case of workers earning less than $25 a week when the boost will generally mean a 60-cent boost in income.

Workers not now receiving the bonus will generally be paid a bonus of 60 cents or 2.4 per cent of their salary after August 15, when the increases go into effect.

The adjusted cost of living index stood at 117.0 at the beginning of last month, compared with 115.8 at June 1. The increase from last October, when the general price ceiling went into effect, amounts to 2.4 per cent.

The June-July increase in the index was not unexpected. From May 1 to June 1 the unadjusted index jumped from 116.1 to 116.7 and at that time the Wartime Prices and Trade Board said it was "quite possible" a further increase would be recorded at July 1.

GUARD INCREASED. DUBLIN, Ga., Aug. 4.—Membership in Unit 275 of the Georgia State Guards here was increased by 28 men in a drive last week, Lieutenant Hartley Hobbs, commanding, said today. Including both a submarine and rifle platoon, the unit recently was authorized to increase its strength to 63 men.

OLD AND NEW IN INDIAN WARFARE—Two American Indian brothers, training at the Army Air Forces Gunnery School at Tyndall Field, near Panama City, Fla., demonstrate with gun and arrow the difference in the new and old Indian warfare. At left, Shot-in-the-Chin (that's his first name) Old Coyote (shot name) squats behind a machinegun, while White Buffalo Calf Old Coyote fingers bow and arrow. The former, who is 28, has taken the name of Henry, while the latter, 19, calls himself Barney. They are sons of Barney and Old May Coyote, of Crow Agency, Mont. They will be sergeants when they complete their courses.

Two Virginia J. D. Wilson Congressmen Is Found Dead Renominated In Hotel Here

Kansas Republican Primary Settles Down to 3-Way Race.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Virginia's only two representatives who faced Democratic opposition were renominated in yesterday's primary election, coasting through to easy victories respectively over a labor leader and a lawyer endorsed by a committee claiming to represent organized labor.

Representative Howard W. Smith, sponsor of a measure to outlaw wartime strikes, won renomination in the eighth Virginia district, defeating Emmett C. Davidson, former Alexandria mayor who now is secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Machinists (AFL).

Representative Clifton A. Woodrum, of Roanoke, also won the Democratic nomination over a fellow townsman, Moss A. Plunkett, who had the endorsement of a committee which said it spoke for the bulk of organized labor in the sixth district.

Glass Unopposed. Senator Carter Glass, president pro tem of the senate, and the state's seven other congressmen had no opposition in the primary.

Returns from 185 of the 218 precincts in the eighth district—scene of one of the bitterest battles in the four states which held primaries yesterday—gave Smith 16,063 votes to 4,532 for Davidson. Woodrum polled 12,867 to Plunkett's 2,237 with 148 of the sixth's 190 precincts reported in.

In Kansas, the Republican gubernatorial nomination contest, which also involved labor issues, settled down to a three-way race.

The chief Kansas contest saw grouped together on the basis of early returns Lieutenant Governor Carl Friend, of Lawrence, Andrew Schoepel, Ness City, and U. S. Senator Clyde M. Reed, who campaigned on a state program to curb what he termed labor abuses, while T. P. Skovgard, political newcomer, trailed far behind.

Complete returns from 66 out of the state's 2,743 precincts gave Schoepel 1,960; Friend 1,840; Reed 1,434 and Skovgard 262.

Senator Arthur Carter, veteran Kansas Republican seeking renomination for a fifth term, held a sizeable lead over two opponents. Matthew Mansfield Neely, who left the U. S. senate to become

Jury To Probe Death of Retired Mathematics Professor.

A coroner's jury will meet at 10:30 o'clock this morning at Spring Hill to investigate the death of Professor Joseph D. Wilson, 50, whose body was found yesterday afternoon in a downtown hotel.

Detectives J. A. Preston and H. C. Newton, who investigated, said Wilson was found hanging by a rope in a bathroom. He apparently had been dead for several hours.

Wilson registered at the hotel at 11 o'clock Monday morning, the police report stated.

A native of Atlanta, Wilson was a former professor of mathematics in Pennsylvania. Mrs. Paul Donehoo, Fulton county coroner, said. He retired last March because of failing health.

Two notes were found in the room, Mrs. Donehoo said. One note was addressed to a brother. A second note stated that he had decided to end his life because he suffered from an incurable stomach ailment.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

BENNING ON AIR.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Aug. 4.—(P)—Fort Benning will go on the air on a national hook-up Sunday afternoon when part of the Army hour program, an NBC Red network presentation, emanates from the parachute training tower. Parachute troops will be featured throughout the program, beginning at 3:30 p. m.

Governor of West Virginia two years ago and now wants to go back again to Washington as a senator, held a slight lead in early returns.

The veteran politician, who served 24 years in congress, was credited with 13,231 votes to 9,287 for his long-time political enemy, former Governor H. G. Kump, in unofficial returns from 248 of 2,788 precincts.

The Army and Navy in Georgia

At the seven advanced flying schools of the Gulf Coast Air Force Training Center, 13 Georgia pilots will be graduated today and receive the silver wings of the Army Air Force.

Their graduation marks the end of 27 weeks of intensive flight training, and as the insignia are pinned on the young fliers, miniature wings will be mailed to "honorary members" of the class, the mothers and girl friends of the graduates.

The fliers and the fields from which they were graduated are: Lieutenant George F. Mozzette, of Albany, Lubbock Field, Texas; Lieutenant Andrew H. Snelling, of Albany; Lieutenant Paul L. Gleason Jr., of Decatur; Lieutenant Winford A. Gaines, of Elberton, Foster Field, Texas; Lieutenant Rolfe M. Schuder Jr., of 2358 Virginia place, Atlanta; Staff Sergeant John C. ### 3 ATLANTANS END BOMBARDIER STUDY

Three Atlantans were graduated recently from the Victorville Army Flying school, Victorville, Cal., as bombardiers, and were commissioned second lieutenants in the Army Air Force Reserve. They are Lieutenants Herbert Howard Gardner Jr., Kenimer O. Camp, and Bernard M. Manuell.

Lieutenant Manuell, of 6 Davis street, was graduated from Boys' High in 1940 and attended Georgia Tech before enlisting in January, at which time he was sent to Maxwell Field, Ala., for his preliminary training. A Tech High graduate, class of 1938, Lieutenant Camp, of 2275 Sutton street, also attended Georgia Tech and the Army Air School at Maxwell Field, as well as at Santa Ana, Cal., before taking the bombardier course. Lieutenant Gardner, of 632 Hardendard avenue, came to Victorville from the replacement center at Santa Ana, and was graduated from Tech High school in 1941.

JAMES G. MAYNARD AT KEESLER FIELD.

James G. Maynard, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Maynard, of Ellenwood, Ga., is attending the Army Air Forces school at Keesler Field, Miss., and will finish the 19-week course this month. Inducted at Fort-McPherson, March, Maynard was stationed at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., for three weeks, and then transferred to Keesler Field April 20. Before his induction, Maynard raised poultry and stock on his farm near Ellenwood, and was a member of the Moreland Avenue Baptist church. He was graduated from Starr High school in Sharpsburg, Ga., in 1935.

COLLEGE PARK MAN SAW FIGHTING FRONT.

Cecil Garmon, fireman, first-class, from College Park, saw fighting at Pearl Harbor, Gilbert Island, Pago Pago, Coral Sea, Rabaul Island, and came through it all without a scratch. But he is home on sick leave this week following an appendectomy and pneumonia, at the New London Navy hospital, New London, Conn. Garmon is the son of Mrs. R. S. Shipley, of 122 West Lyle avenue, College Park.

48 GEORGIANS END NAVAL RECRUIT TRAINING.

Forty-eight Georgians completed recruit training Saturday at the Naval Training Station, Norfolk, Va., and were granted eight days' leave of absence, including travel time.

Of that number, the following were selected for instruction in a trade school: Alton Clinton Loudermilk and David Britt Wingo, of Atlanta; Benjamin Hornbuckle Hudgins, of Bolton; Lawrence Grady Collett, of Canton; Newton Warren Abbe, of John David Roberts, of College Park; Horace Dalton, of Decatur; Othell Leatherwood, of Draketon; William Franklin Richardson and Hershel Thomas Scott, of Monroe; Roy Wilson, of Oxford, and Loy Thomas Chandler Jr., of Powder Springs.

Others finishing the recruit course are: From Atlanta: Charles William Awtrey, Earl Millard Awtrey, James Terry Brown, Albert Williams, Troy Lee Griggs, Richard Paul Guthrie, Ernest Leon Kimball, David Norris Long, Jack Theodore Twigg, Paul Vinson Warren and Glen Woodford Wiggins.

From other Georgia towns: Robert Fulton Smith, of Acworth; Curtis Wayman Ayers, of Bowman; James Walter Dunn and William Bail Lanningan, of Canton; Howard Forbes Stakely, of College Park; George Washington Maddox, of Experiment; Edgar Hulse Rogers, of Gainesville; Willie Elrod Ayers, Tom Watson Elder and Jules Franklin Young, of Griffin; Herman Ray Scroggins, of Hampton; O. C. Dowdy, of Lithonia; Alfred Eugene English, of Milledgeville; Frank Newsome, of Monroe; Harold Stanton Smith, of Powder Springs; Leeford Custon Dowdy, of Temple; Davis Lamar Polston, of Union City; Olin Daniel Hofmeister and Louie Russell Lowery, of Athens; Henry Jackson Hix, of Comer; James Denver Harvey Jr., of Deweyrose; Jacob Asbury Saxon, of Greensboro; Fred Kelly Jr., of Vienna, and Clyde Gipson Wiley, of Winder.

W. C. DAVIS COMMISSIONED SECOND LIEUTENANT

Winner of five medals for sharpshooting since he reported for duty with the Marines June 12, William C. Davis, 22, of Atlanta, recently was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. Marines at the training station in Quantico, Va.

Lieutenant Davis now is undergoing an additional ten weeks of intensive training in the duties of a platoon commander before being assigned to active duty with a combat unit.

The father of the new leatherneck officer, Comer Davis Sr., is a tax assessor of Fulton county, and he and Mrs. Davis live at 584 Manford road. A graduate of Georgia Military Academy, Lieutenant Davis enlisted while still in college at Mercer, but was allowed to wait until he finished his studies this June to report for duty.

Second Lieutenant Albert B. Meador Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Meador, of Decatur, has successfully completed a special course of instruction in the Signal Corps School at Camp Murphy, Fla. Lieutenant Meador was selected for this specialized training on the basis of a written aptitude test.

Lieutenant Rudolph Geissler Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Geissler, of 3714 Peachtree road, is a flight instructor at the new Army Air Force Basic Flying School at Bainbridge, Ga. A student at the University of Georgia, Lieutenant Geissler joined the Army Air Forces in October, 1941.

Three Atlanta men are being trained in the Cavalry Replacement Training Center, Fort Riley, Kan., the nation's only horse and mechanized training center. They are: Richard M. Davidson, of 602 Clifton road; James Leonard Moore, of 1753 Boulevard drive, and Joe Frank Haliburton, of 262 Richardson street.

Corporal Edward Cameron Hitchcock, of Atlanta, has been admitted to the Air Forces Officer Candidate School, Miami Beach, Florida.

Promotion of Jack Chambers, son of J. J. Chambers, well-known Atlanta real estate salesman, to rank of first lieutenant, was announced yesterday. Lieutenant Chambers, who entered the Army in 1941, after being graduated from Princeton, now is attending the officers' field artillery school at Fort Sill, Ark.

Before the Storm

There is an unusual calm in the war news from the Allied, or United Nations, side.

The picture in Russia is slightly darker as Moscow yesterday announced Red troops retreated 50 more miles in the Caucasus.

The Japanese move closer to Australia.

The Japanese move into the Aleutian Islands in a number and a manner disturbing to this country. They are in a position to block any aid to Russia through Siberia.

But, from England and this country, there is no news, but there is a growing feeling that something tremendous is being planned which will be a tremendous campaign. It may be a second front or it may be an attack at some other point.

There is a growing feeling that something soon must happen: that this is the calm before some great storm of war.

The nation must have faith and pray for success in whatever may come in that storm.

Rural Youth Answers

Wayne county's rural youth, 800 of them in the 4-H clubs of the county, have answered the challenge of Pearl Harbor.

Their answer is contained in their annual Cloverbloom publication. In the foreword the staff writes:

"President Roosevelt has extended a challenge to every able-bodied boy and girl in America to help produce and save food to conserve our human and natural resources, to collect scrap, to develop our health and that of our community, to practice the democratic procedure and appreciate our way of life, to understand some of the important social and economic forces at work and to interpret the Four Freedoms to their communities, and to invest their earnings in war stamps and bonds for victory."

There follows in the publication a home program for each member:

To produce 10 rows 50 feet long, to raise at least 10 pullets, one grade dairy heifer or beef calf and one victory pig.

All that is in addition to collecting scrap and doing all the other jobs of the program, such as producing more corn, which Wayne county needs.

This is but one county. All over the state there are these boys interesting themselves, while still in high school, in the welfare of their country's land and future.

They are good omens.

The Newspaper "Yank"

A step in the right direction has been taken by "Yank," that Army newspaper which is the successor to the "Stars and Stripes" of World War I fame. The reference is to the fact that the publication is by the men for the men in the service. Further, it is streamlined and modern to keep step with the new Army. But best of all, its editorial policy aims at a good bulls-eye—to print exactly what the man in the ranks wants to read, whether he be in Iceland or Ireland or Libya or Alaska, or any other far-flung fighting front.

The aim of the paper is summed up in its leading editorial, which merits quoting because it puts over its idea so well: "This is our newspaper, solely and exclusively for us in the ranks and for nobody else. It is us. When there is poetry, it will reflect our poetry. War always produces poetry. When there is gripping, there is space for that. War always produces gripping. As a reflection of ourselves, 'Yank' is freedom, too; something our enemies are afraid to duplicate, or couldn't if they dared."

So, good luck and good wishes to you,

"Yank," and to all the men in the ranks who will help to make you, and who will read you. You're as American as the traditional apple pie.

More Than 4,500 Pardons

In Governor Talmadge's two consecutive terms, a span of four years, he pardoned more than 4,500 criminals.

The next largest number, an approximate 1,500, were pardoned in former Governor E. D. Rivers' four years.

The pardon racket, which reached unprecedented proportions in Governor Talmadge's administrations, is going along merrily right now. Not on so large a scale, but it is still thriving, still very much alive in the present administration.

Favorite Army Dessert

Supporters of apple pie as the national dessert will find comfort in the Army eating statistics. The statistics show that apple pie is the favorite Army dessert. Ice cream is second with doughnuts third and chocolate cake fourth.

Apparently the caliber of Army cooks has improved. In the old war the Army cooks made pie crusts out of old boot leather or cardboard, depending on which was handier.

Apple pie is the American dessert. And the smart persons learn to combine the favorite and the runner-up into pie-a-la-mode.

More Than a Name

Dedication of the American town of Lidice should be a source of inspiration to all freedom-loving peoples, but particularly to those living in this country. It was a magnificent and magnanimous gesture, this renaming of the little community near Joliet, Ill., and the ceremonies in connection with the dedication were of that high character which the American people understand so well, and which the Nazi mind understands not at all.

For it must be remembered that when the Czechoslovakian town of Lidice was wiped out—its men and boys killed, and its women and children sent into slavery or worse—the Berlin radio boasted to the world of this fact. To their distorted, degraded minds, it was an accomplishment to be proud of, this act of supreme cruelty. The reaction of decent folks of the world must have come as a surprise to them.

So now, to add to their consternation, this country has a Lidice. This is a community that will live forever in the minds and hearts of people all over the world, for it represents a way of thinking and feeling that helped to make this nation great and that will keep it great long after the Nazi poison has been cleansed from the world.

Georgia Editors Say:

LYING POLITICIANS
(From The Lyons Progress.)

One of the favorite topics of conversation when a cornered politician is trying to wiggle his way out of a corner starts with the exclamation: "I'm lying newspapers."

Demagogues do not like newspapers.

Dictators do not like newspapers.

Hitler has a newspaper. The name of Hitler's newspaper, crudely translated, is "The Big Shot."

Talmadge has a newspaper. He calls it "The Statesman."

These newspapers are not like other newspapers. They do not carry news. They carry only propaganda of their boss.

Hitler's newspaper says that America is being deceived by "lying newspapers," and he names them: The New York Times, the Chicago Sun, the Emporia Gazette, the Herald-Tribune, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, the "dirty sheets" in Louisville and Denver and New Orleans and Atlanta and San Francisco.

Talmadge's newspaper says that Georgia is being deceived by "lying newspapers," and he attacks the Atlanta Journal and The Atlanta Constitution and the "dirty sheets" in Milledgeville and Athens and Augusta, in Valdosta and Sylvester and Newnan, in Monroe and Rossville and Marietta.

Hitler does not like "lying newspapers" that oppose Hitlerism and stand for America and the democratic way of life.

Talmadge does not like "lying newspapers" that oppose Talmadgeism and stand for Georgia and constitutional government.

Hitler has a handy-man called Himmler, who heads up his storm troopers and biffs people over the head with blackjacks. A good many of the storm troopers were convicted criminals, before Hitler took them out of jail and put them to storming.

Talmadge has a handy-man called Johnny Goodwin. Are there any pardoned criminals in the "Palace Guard" we hear about? Next time Talmadge is talking about "lying newspapers" will he tell us just how many there are?

Incidentally, Hitler has a radio speller named Goebbels, who spits and cusses on the air. Now, what was the name of that fellow that spoke for Talmadge at Moultrie?

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

PROPAGANDA BOMBS WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The British are not overlooking any bets on the propaganda front.

Remembering how the last war ended suddenly after a break-up in German morale at home, they are doing everything possible to soften up the Reich. Bombers, balloons and the radio are being used to send a flood of material to Germany setting forth the objectives of the United Nations and encouraging resistance to the Nazi machine.

Since the beginning of the year the British have dropped more than 71,000,000 propaganda leaflets on Germany alone. According to a recent London broadcast, 101,000,000 others were dropped on Nazi-occupied sections of Europe. In all, 176 different messages of hope have been sent to Axis Europe.

One of the latest products of the British propaganda effort is a miniature newspaper, eight inches long by five inches wide, which is being delivered to Nazi-occupied countries regularly by bombers and balloons. It is marked "Brought by Your Friends of the RAF."

Planes distribute it on their bombing raids. Another method is to send copies over attached to small hydrogen-filled balloons. The German government recently sought to frighten people away from making the following broadcast from Berlin: "In the dropping of leaflets, the enemy has recently been using free-moving spherical balloons with a diameter of two to three meters. They are filled with hydrogen. . . . The population is warned not to touch the balloons on the ground, since there is danger of burns."

FOUND ON PRISONERS Copies of the material distributed by the RAF in Germany and Italy have been found on prisoners taken in Libya and Russia. They seem to be eagerly read by the people whenever they can lay hands on them.

All of this is in addition to the regular British broadcasts to Germany. Night after night these broadcasts go on, telling the German people war facts and information denied them by the Nazi-controlled press. To those with short-wave sets in Germany, they offer a better source of authentic information about war developments than anything obtainable at home.

After one of the 1,000-plane raids on German cities last week, British Air Marshal Harris went on the air with a special broadcast to the Reich. "What you are getting now," he said in effect, "is only a sample of what is to come tomorrow. Tomorrow the Americans will join us with great fleets of planes. Unless you get rid of your Nazi leaders and stop the war now, we intend to destroy every city in Germany, just as Cologne was destroyed."

Doubtless Air Marshal Harris' speech was also reported in full by the miniature newspaper which is published for the benefit of Axis Europe. For timeliness and forthright recital of events to come, it is regarded as the most effective propaganda step yet taken by the British. Germans who heard that broadcast must have trembled in their boots.

BASIC POINTS London sources reveal that the leaflets distributed by the British take up a number of basic points relating to the treatment of the Germans after the war. Here are some of them:

Can Hitler expect a compromise peace? Answer: The Treaty of London, signed with the consent of the United States, declares that Britain and Russia will never negotiate with the Hitler regime or any other German government which has not renounced military aggression.

Does Hitler's defeat mean Germany's destruction? Answer: Britain has declared that after Hitler's tyranny has been destroyed, the Allies' aim is to make it possible for all European nations, including Germany, to build an international order which will protect the people from injustices, unemployment and economic exploitation.

Will England surrender Germany to Bolshevism? Answer: In Article V of the London Treaty, Britain and the Soviet Union pledge not to interfere in the internal affairs of other countries, once Hitler's war machine has been completely smashed. The "Bolshevist Menace" is simply a propaganda specter.

Does England expect the German people to help destroy Hitler's regime? Answer: The British know what difficulties the German people face. Hitler's downfall, millions of lives will be saved. A revolt would undoubtedly cost many lives, but continued rule by Hitler would mean even greater sacrifices.

What would be the result of action against Hitler by the German people? Answer: The true enemies of Germany are the Nazi militarists who are prolonging the war. Germany can have peace only if she will free herself of Hitler and militarism. This will open the way for peace, liberty and justice.

Berlin claims that the British also are distributing propaganda to Nazi-occupied sections of Europe urging the people to be in readiness for an allied invasion—promising an early arrival of British and American forces. Counterspart by the British is to convince the Europeans that such an invasion is impossible because of the activities of German U-boats.

APPROVES ARNALL FOR GOVERNOR

Editor, Constitution: Since my retirement from active business in 1927 I have interested myself in many civic projects and organizations; as well as officials inducted into many positions of responsibility, local and statewide, by the suffrage of the voters.

I have been deeply concerned as a citizen and voter of this state and the approaching primary of 1942 has prompted me to write this open letter, not selfishly but wholeheartedly, in the interest of the entire citizenship of this great commonwealth.

After many years I have observed the official action of one who has by merit and qualification and proven ability been promoted to the most vitally important department of state. There is no issue as to the manner of man and his unrelenting efforts to make his ambitious cherished that is to put into operation workable improvements in the government of the state.

My subject is the man of the highest type and honor. A man of determination and mature plans. A man who is young and physically fit to bear the burdens of responsibility with sagacity and practical experience to carry out with precision the solving of problems arising with ready decision characteristic of the man that he is. The man is the Hon. Ellis Arnall.

WILLIAM STRAIT SANDERS, Atlanta, a.

"I WILL HAVE MERCY, NOT SACRIFICE"

Editor, Constitution: "Let's give our men in our jails and penitentiaries a second chance—not just simply turn them loose on the public, as Rivers and Talmadge have done in Georgia—but let them make their contribution as fighting men in their country's supreme hour of need."

That is what this whole war is about: To give humanity a second chance to prove itself worthy of life. We on the outside have failed; the creme de la creme of society have failed; the churches have failed to teach us to love our fellowman that this awful carnage and human massacre would have been impossible.

Let's let our prison patriots

EDITOR'S NOTE:

Mr. Ralph Jones, whose column, "Silhouettes," usually appears in this space, will be absent from the office for the next several weeks. Until his return this space will be filled with letters to the Editor and other features.

WANTS GEORGIA TO BE SET FREE

Editor, Constitution: His insolvency, the Hitleresque harlequin, who, through the machinations of designing politicians, now descends to his enemies' chair, and the mob which expelled certain members of the faculty of the state university illustrates the venomous vindictiveness of which the man is capable. And, yet, this man, utterly ruthless in meeting out punishment to his enemies, is a creature of maudlin sentimentality when, in flagrant abuse of the pardoning power, he systematically turns loose hordes of hardened criminals to prey upon the public.

And now there comes from Columbus Roberts, the erstwhile white knight of Georgia politics, the incomprehensible announcement that he will "string along" with Talmadge in his frenzied efforts to prolong for four more years the agonies of poor old Georgia.

Politics, like misery, undoubtedly "acquaints a man with strange bed-fellows."

Elberton, Ga. W. D. TUTT.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Gravy NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The ball club looked very good that spring until the boss let his wife come down and set on the bench with us, and she starts us to running the bases backward and loads up the club with her personal friends, but we had plenty trouble in the front office and up in the press coop, too.

For one thing, why the first thing you know, her uncle gets ahold of the hotdog concession and the peanuts and programs and her brother he grabs the club's insurance business, which is worth quite a good slab of dough, and an aunt of hers turns out to be getting a commission on all our railroad fares and a cut from the hotels where we stop when we are on the road. Except in Chicago the hotel people won't go for this, so they jerk us out of our good hotel near the ball yard and pack us in the Hull House, 'way to hell and gone out on the West Side, and in St. Louis we wind up in a youth joint where they got youth up to 35 years old and they keep you awake all night arguing about democracy and Russia. It looks like everybody in the family hops aboard the gravy train and somebody is getting a commission on even the laundry and the soap.

Umpire Baiting

Well, so I never did find out positively how the business about the umpires started, whether it was her or him, but she would be always saying the old-timers like McGowan, why they had the wrong idea about the rules. She would say the rule book was a living thing and the umpires they ought to interpret the rules for the underdogs, like if a team is behind, then you ought to give them all the close ones or spot them a few runs to begin with, because, otherwise, the rules were just the dead hand of the past and the underdog couldn't win for losing.

The way things were going, with her trying to pitch and this scrawny lady lecturer friend of hers playing first base and this young twirp of a night school student doing all the pinch-hitting, and he can't hit the ground with his bat, why, we were generally, pretty near always, the underdog, too. So whenever any umpire would call one against us even if our guys was out from here to Yonkers, or some of the other guys was a first baseman, even a play on him, the boss and the old lady they, and the lady first baseman and the twirp, all started yelling "horse and buggy!" Horse and buggy!" And names like "copperhead" and "Tory," which means Louise.

Well, you remember, we lose some pretty good umpires that year, and her and him they bullied the league into hiring some friends of theirs who believed like they did about how you shouldn't just call them as you see them, according to the rule book, but you ought to interpret the rules in a democratic way for the underdog. After that we got some of the good umpires, but you ever saw me get caught off second on a hidden ball one day and one of their umpires sent me on home because he said it was dishonest to deceive me like that. They never allowed anybody to steal any bases on us because they said they couldn't encourage stealing, and we didn't have to steal ourselves. We would just walk down and they would put the ball on us and these new umpires would say "safe!" I got 20 bases on balls one week. You didn't have to swing. Just wait and walk.

Magazines Meanwhile, she gets a job writing a baseball column for papers, and she would set there on the bench with a pencil and paper and write down all the confidential private stuff I said to each other and put it in plugs for her lady lecturer pal on first base and the night school twirp. She got the old man to can two 300 hitters because they were old-fashioned and the boss he would hold out news from the first base writers, and she would sell it herself or slip it to some friend who would sell it to a magazine for a lot of dough.

The boys in the hyena cage naturally got sore, because writing baseball in their regular business, but if they beef, why, a lot of her friends write to the editor he should can them for their scurrilous insults against a wonderful lady—the dirty rats. And then, you remember, she goes on the radio telling the customers all about baseball and drags down $200 a week and cuts in her pals for a chunk of it, so the regular broadcaster blows his job.

Like I say, it was a very strange experience and even when I got canned for punching the study twirp for calling me a Tory, I still wasn't exactly sore at her, although, no two ways about it, if it was my old lady came down and a club I was managing I would certainly belt her one right square in the snoot.

pressed by his august grandeur and relentless in his insane desire to wreak vengeance upon his political foe, the despicable manner in which he organized, packed and led the mob which expelled certain members of the faculty of the state university illustrates the venomous vindictiveness of which the man is capable. And, yet, this man, utterly ruthless in meeting out punishment to his enemies, is a creature of maudlin sentimentality when, in flagrant abuse of the pardoning power, he systematically turns loose hordes of hardened criminals to prey upon the public.

And now there comes from Columbus Roberts, the erstwhile white knight of Georgia politics, the incomprehensible announcement that he will "string along" with Talmadge in his frenzied efforts to prolong for four more years the agonies of poor old Georgia.

Politics, like misery, undoubtedly "acquaints a man with strange bed-fellows."

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

A SECOND FRONT? If the Germans reach the Volga at Stalingrad they will have captured more than half of Russia's cultivated land and much of her industry. If the Germans reach the Caucasian oil fields, even though they cannot use them for a year because of the tremendous transportation problem, they can then establish defenses and say, "For us the war is over in Russia."

The Russia newspaper, Pravda, in arguing for a second front, said:

"Time is the ally of the brave. But it turns against the faint-hearted, the waverers, the unresourceful. The anti-Nazi coalition has every opportunity to frustrate Hitler's plan and destroy him now . . . but opportunity is not reality. A lost opportunity means lost time and lost forces. To miss a chance of striking at the enemy is to give him a chance to entrench, to give him a breathing space and to enable him to bide his time."

Pravda had in mind the fact that Hitler's lines held last winter despite the fact he was not prepared, by his own admission, for the transportation and supply problems of a Russian winter.

If he gains most of Russia's productive fields by winter; if he gains most of her industries; if he controls her oil and the Volga river, then Russia will be out of the war, even though her armies, or remnants of them, remain in the field.

It must be remembered that the Russians are realistic. They are spilling blood. In fact, they are the only anti-Nazi who have spilled any quantities of blood. They realistically want us to open a second front, no matter what the cost.

It so happens that the logic of the second front is irrefutable. When to strike is a bigger problem than where.

FEVERISH PREPARATION We don't hear about it. And we don't. When the second front is opened the only news we shall have of it will be after the action has been well begun, or perhaps after a bridgehead has been established.

Feverish preparation is going on now. Few realize the tremendous task involved. The largest ship can transport 10,000 men. There are only a very few available of that size. Most of the transports will be small ships, carrying a thousand or two.

In addition, there must be ships to carry tanks and heavy guns. They must go with the men. There can be none of the earlier mistakes of tanks going on one ship and the men on another. Too often one of the ships does not arrive.

There must be air control, from a few days before the first transports move out. It must be maintained from that point on. It must be control over a wide area, not merely over a stretch of the channel or the sea through which the invasion moves.

Remember that Hitler, with all his careful plans and his acres of invasion barges, did not dare the invasion of England. With less preparation there are fools who think we long ago should have tried to open a second front.

To transport a million men across the 20 or 30 miles of channel would require a week. Should Norway be the objective, three weeks would be necessary to transport a million men and all their guns, tanks and supplies.

What holds us up? You will recall that our congress hurriedly passed a huge appropriation for a secret naval weapon a few weeks ago.

That is in production. So are other secret weapons, designed for an invasion effort. Ships must be fitted out with special equipment.

We need more tanks. When the front is opened it must be covered with airplanes and with heavy guns from the sea. Planes will do the big job.

The tanks will begin to roll. They will have to extend the break-through.

All this is going to cost high in lives. If we go before we are ready we might easily lose the equipment we put into it and the lives of thousands of men.

We are going to lose many lives anyhow. And much equipment. This has been Hitler's war so far.

Perhaps his greatest strategic triumph has been to keep a huge British army bottled in England while he sends his finest soldiers to the battlefields he has chosen.

The general who picks the battlefields has an advantage. The British army is blockaded, in effect, in England. With them are thousands of American soldiers, perhaps a half-million or more.

We are in the unfortunate position of not being ready (because so much has had to be sent to England, China, Russia, Iceland, Canada, and all our other bases) and not being able to wait much longer.

This country is up against something greater than it has ever faced before. The second front will come. When and where one may not know. When it does come you will learn about it days after it has begun.

Patriotism Doesn't Require One Man to Let Another Impose on Him

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

After all this talk of getting back to the horse and buggy days just how many horses and how many buggies have you seen on Atlanta streets? I don't refer to public utility stunts.

Nah, do I mean the saddle horses of the riding set, stabled out in the far suburbs. Being brought up to look upon the horse as a utility as well as a pleasure and a friend, it has amused me to observe a gentleman in riding togs speeding an eight-cylinder coupe five miles out in the country to greet his horse and take a four-mile canter.

In my horse-and-buggy days the stable was in the back yard—we had sizable yards then—and when you wanted to ride or drive you went out and saddled up or harnessed up, as circumstances might demand. What was the use of a horse if you kept him five miles away? How would you reach him?

There were city dwellers, it is true, who had no convenient place to keep a horse and therefore boarded him at the livery stable. That usually was within walking distance and you could get on and off a horse at a first-class place for $12 a month, which included currying and brushing and delivery at your door.

I'm afraid that wouldn't work now. There are no more livery stables and if there were they couldn't board a horse for $12 a month.

I trust that force of circumstances will not require me to do a Paul Revere on an assignment. I haven't straddled a horse in 35 years and I greatly prefer an automobile. Even a Model T.

The seat in a Model T may be hard and a broken spring may penetrate your epidermis and points beyond—but you don't have to straddle it.

"Cas, how much longer are you going to keep me waiting?" called Chollie Cocklebur from his rolling chair on the shady end of the big porch of the store.

Cas had been busy since early morning, helping Miss Sally mark and put up the new shipment of goods that had arrived the night before.

Chollie wanted to play the daily game of checkers. Cas and Chollie had played at least one round of checkers pretty nearly every day since they had been in business together for now more than 50 years.

And since Chollie's stroke, he yearned for the quiet hour of fellowship with his dearest friend as never before.

"Okay, Chollie; let's lemme finish these overalls, 'n' I'll beat their 'oun' out 'yer," yelled Cas.

And now they were deep in a game. Cas had brought Chollie a guerd of cool water, fixed the board so Chollie could reach the men with his left hand, and they were right up to the point where one false move would play havoc.

"Telephone, Mr. Cas," said Miss Sally.

"Dog-tiegit, why in ther nashun 'grumbled Cas as he shifted from under the board and started limping toward the telephone.

"This blamed ole knee goes faster sleep over time I git in er gud game uv checkers. Why they must call me right when I've got Chollie worried."

"Hello! Say what?"

It was the express office at the near-by railroad depot. They were telling Cas that the government inspector had turned down the shipment of peaches that he had sent the afternoon before, representing the fruit from his orchard on the list is of Anglo-Saxon origin. I looked over the list—and I found no name that looked Slavic or Teutonic or suggestive of Middle Europe.

Not that I have anything against "furriners." They have made some of our finest citizens—as well as some of our worst. People are pretty much alike under the skin. Good and bad, no matter where they or their parents were born.

But it does rather confirm our belief that up in the Georgia hills there remains the purest Anglo-Saxon stock in this country. A pretty good stock, too.

Nobody but a fool never changes his mind. My pet antipathy on stage or radio has long been Al Johnson. I didn't like his stuff, his manner, his personality. I had a deep-seated impression that any program without Johnson was improved 100 per cent.

But I've been reading that Johnson—at his own expense—has been singing to the boys in far away posts—from Alaska to Panama. And not by radio but in person.

I still detest "Mammy" and "Sonny Boy" but I'll indulge in no more criticism of Johnson. Not that he's ever heard of me, anyway.

Driving in the Dark
New York's "dim-out" regulations now require automobiles to use only parking lights, which don't give much illumination ahead.

That shouldn't be a hardship in Manhattan if street lighting hasn't been dimmed too much.

Many's the time I've left midtown at night and driven almost to my home near Buckhead without realizing I had turned on no lights whatever—for which I apologize to the police department.

I didn't know I was dimmed out until I turned into my side street, which is so poorly lighted I knew I was in the dark.

Frank Coffee, who travels extensively for Social Security, brought me a story from a Birmingham paper.

This young Negro was confined in the county jail and was making an urgent plea for release. "What's the matter?" he was asked. "Don't they treat you right?"

"They treat me fine."

"Food all right?"

"Better than I've used to."

"Comfortable room?"

"Just fine."

"When they are you so anxious to get out?"

"Well, boss, this place has such a bad reputation."

and from the orchards of several of the neighbors. The fruit had not been inspected before it was packed, and there was nothing that would be caught out. It did not want to come and get it, or what must they do?

Cas wiped the sweat from his forehead as he walked back on the porch. He told Chollie what was up. They discussed this and that method of meeting the technicality. The peaches were the best they had ever grown. They had followed all the regulations about gathering and packing them; but they had failed to hire a man at $15 a day to inspect them before putting them in the baskets.

"Cas, I tell you what you had better do. You see, there are peaches in that shipment from a half-dozen of our neighbors, as well as your own. The boys are all in the fields at work. It will be a night before we can confer with them. You'd better let Sally or Mary drive you over to the station and you talk with the agent and call the inspector's office in Atlanta and see if you can't reach an agreement by which they can be spread out there in the office and inspected. It would be a shame to lose all those fine peaches," said Chollie.

"No, Chollie, I ain't goin' out eny cish er thing. I'll git mad and cus ther whole shootin' match out, 'n' thet'll be bad for us all. They ain't goin' to let me ter me. Tell yer what I'm goin' do. F.D.R. Godfather Of British Prince
LONDON, Aug. 4.—(P)—President Roosevelt gave his first name and his sponsorship as godfather today to the youngest of the British royal princes at a christening ceremony on the 42nd birthday of the infant's aunt, Queen Elizabeth.

The Prince, born July 4 to the Duke and Duchess of Kent, was named Michael George Charles Franklin.

The Duke, youngest brother of King George VI, served as proxy for Mr. Roosevelt, who accepted by cable the royal couple's invitation to be a godfather to the Prince, the third child born to the Kings and the seventh in the succession to the throne.

The godparents besides Mr. Roosevelt are the exiled King Haakon, of Norway, and Queen Wilhelmina, of the Netherlands, the Duke of Gloucester, the Crown Princess of Greece, Lady Patricia Ramsay, and the Dowager Marchioness of Milford Haven.

The Duchess of Kent formerly was Princess Marina, of Greece.

Planes Smash Jap Settlement Near Moresby

Nipponese Hold Airfield as Jungle Fighting Continues.

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA.
Aug. 4.—(P)—Shadowy jungle fighting continued at Kokoda, 60 miles east of Port Moresby, today and front dispatches indicated that co-operating Allied planes had demolished the little grass-thatched settlement.

The Japanese patrol which pushed into Kokoda from the Gona beachhead were still in possession of Kokoda's airfield, however, which is the settlement's main value.

Australian patrols were said to have routed the Japanese in every clash in the area, but the Japanese displayed the same cunning which served them so well in the conquests of Malaya and the Dutch East Indies.

Kokoda is a few miles from "The Gap," a 6,000-foot pass in the towering Owen Stanley mountain range separating it from Port Moresby.

This backdoor menace to Port Moresby was tempered by knowledge of the formidable mountain barrier, but it was obvious the Australians would be much happier if they, instead of the Japanese, held Kokoda.

One Australian correspondent stationed at an advance Allied base said he believed "the land threat to Port Moresby will become serious only if it coincides with a sea-borne attempt."

Some Australian papers were calling for more Allied naval and air aid to crush the Gona-Buna foothold east of Kokoda. The area has been subjected to a steady Allied bombing attack since the Japanese first landed July 22.

The Japanese were reported to have shelled and machinegunned Gona and Buna before landing. A few white officers and native troops in the district withdrew toward Kokoda, but the Japanese were right on their heels. In one place the Japanese even caught up with the retreating Allied troops by swimming a mountain stream whose bridge had been destroyed.

Each time the Australian patrols made a stand the Japanese fanned out into the jungle, cutting paths with axes and bushknives to encircle the Australian positions.

The Japanese jungle fighters were described as wearing green uniforms to blend with the forest and green mosquito veils over their heads and shoulders.

Manufacture Of Typewriters To Be Stopped

Only Small Number To Be Produced for Government.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(P)—The War Production Board today ordered manufacture of typewriters stopped October 31, except for a small number to be produced for the government by the Woodstock Typewriter Company.

Production of portable typewriters was shut off July 31. Under today's order, production by the major typewriter companies between July 1 and October 31 is limited to 12 1/4 per cent of the total number of standard typewriters billed by them to customers last year.

WPB officials said the quota represented a cut of more than 60 per cent in the 1941 production rate.

The Woodstock company at Woodstock, Ill., will be allowed to make a maximum of 22,701 non-portable typewriters, with production not exceeding 1,600 a month, in the two-year period between July 1, 1942, and June 30, 1944.

The sizes, kinds and types of machines which the company will make will be determined from time to time by the WPB to meet special needs of the armed services.

The government now is allocating new typewriters, all of which are reserved for the Army, Navy and Maritime Commission.

12,342 Casualties Announced by Navy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(P)—The Navy, releasing its ninth casualty list of the war, announced today that dead, wounded and missing men reported to next of kin from the start of the war to July 25 totaled 12,342.

The recapitulation was the first officially issued since the Navy began issuing casualty lists for its own personnel and its component services, the Marine Corps and the Coast Guard.

The ninth casualty list contained the names of 27 dead, 47 wounded and 198 missing—a total of 272 reported to next of kin during the period July 11 to 25, inclusive. In this particular list, the Navy said, there were no Coast Guard casualties and Marine Corps casualties were only three killed and one missing.

The recapitulation showed that the burden of losses had been borne by the Navy's own men, who have engaged in such actions as the China Sea campaign, the Coral Sea battle, the Midway battle and the initial engagement of the war at Pearl Harbor.

The recapitulation showed that of 3,541 dead reported to date, 3,251 were officers and men of the Navy, 260 were Marines and 30 were Coast Guardsmen.

In releasing casualty list No. 9 the Navy said that some of those listed as missing may have been rescued at sea and landed at isolated spots where they are unable to communicate with United States naval authorities.

R. R. Pattillo Jr. Killed in Crash Of Army Plane

Atlantan Among 5 Dead in Craft Wrecked Near Columbia.

An Atlantan was among five men instantly killed yesterday afternoon in the crash landing of an Army bomber near Columbia, S. C. The Army announced last night. Two others were seriously injured.

The Atlantan was co-pilot, Second Lieutenant Robert R. Pattillo Jr., of 2908 Peachtree road.

Others killed were: Pilot, Second Lieutenant Neal O. Curtis, of Stanley, N. Y.; Private Ray E. Graves, S. Cloud, Minn.; Private Floyd H. Shuman, Dillsboro, Ind.; and Private Alpha V. Tooke, Dunsmuir, N. D.

Those critically injured were Private Philip Y. Downing, Austin, Texas, and Private Benedict M. Streit, Tipton, Kan.

Pattillo, a native of Atlanta, attended the public schools here and graduated from North Fulton High school. He attended Duke University, graduating before his enlistment in the Army Air Corps a year and a half ago.

He was active in athletics both at Fulton and Duke. Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Pattillo Sr.; two brothers, Morgan L. Pattillo, United States Navy, and Robert C. Pattillo, United States Army.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Wife, 17, Sues 'Cal' Courtney For Divorce

'Major' Is Under Bond Accused of Posing as Officer.

"Major" John Calhoun Courtney III yesterday was sued in Fulton county superior court for divorce by his wife, Mrs. Barbara Dillon Courtney, who contended that she was induced to marry Courtney through false and fraudulent representations. She asked the restoration of her maiden name.

The suit, filed by John Boman and the firm of Crenshaw, Hansell & Gunby, is a simple one alleging that the couple was married July 11, 1942, and separated a week later.

Courtney was arrested July 18 by FBI agents on charges of impersonating an officer. It also was charged that he passed several worthless checks.

He has been held to the federal grand jury on charges of impersonating an officer of the Army and is free under a $500 bond.

The divorce action says Mrs. Courtney is 17 years old, and that the marriage, said to have taken place in Conley, Ga., after an elopement, was without the consent of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Dillon. The petition was made returnable to the divorce division of the Fulton county superior court on the first Monday in September.

Courtney, known as "Cal," at one time served as executive secretary of the Young Democrat Club of Georgia and was president of the Young Statesmen's Club. He formerly was employed in state selective service headquarters.

Records show he was never a commissioned officer in the Army, it is reported.

Nazi Military Train Dynamited, 10 Dead

LONDON, Aug. 5.—(Wednesday)—(INS)—A German military train, bound for Cherbourg on the French coast, has been dynamited, killing 10 Nazi soldiers, a Madrid dispatch to the Daily Mail said today.

The message quoted an announcement by the German authorities in Paris that 30 French hostages will be executed in reprisal for the dynamiting of the train.

Standard Oil Again Linked With Germans

Plan for Filing English, French Patents Charged.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(P)—The Senate Patents Committee was told today that a German chemical trust in 1940 and 1941—before this country's entry into the war—had arranged to file applications for patents in France and England in the name of Standard Oil (New Jersey).

(Meanwhile, Standard filed "a denial of previous charges made before the committee, saying that they were misleading and that its relations with the German firm redounded to the benefit of this country.)

The report about the patent applications came from Patrick Gibson, special assistant to the attorney general, as he laid before the committee the Department of Justice's version of the prewar patent pooling arrangements between Standard and I. G. Farbenindustrie, the German concern.

"I call attention to the fact," Gibson said, "that by letters of March 29, 1940, April 19, 1940, and March 17, 1941, between Standard and I. G. it was arranged that during the war I. G. should, on its developments (presumably in fields assigned to Standard), file applications in France and England in Standard's name."

Senator Bone, Democrat, Washington, committee chairman, described the reported arrangement as "astounding," and added: "If the war does nothing else, it ought to clean up a system like this."

In a telegram to Bone, W. S. Farish, president of Standard Oil, declared that Gibson, in testimony yesterday, had "reiterated and enlarged upon the prejudiced and misleading interpretations of our peace-time agreements" with the German company.

He described those agreements as "entirely constructive and very much in the interest of our country and our company." He told Bone that in the oil chemical field "the only chemical field we are now in or have ever been in . . . the arrangements left absolutely unaffected all of our other existing lines of oil chemical business."

Standard since expanded from about $3,000,000 to about $30,000,000.

"In addition," Farish said, "they gave us control of all similar future chemical developments of I. G., as well as a minority participation in all of I. G.'s future chemical developments, which might bear upon, but were less closely related to the oil business."

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
ROME, Ga., Aug. 4.—Mussolini's gift from ancient Rome to modern Rome—a replica of the famous Capitoline wolf may be headed for Uncle Sam's scrap metal heap, it was revealed here today.

A representative of the salvage division of the WPB queried the city commission on the possibility of making such a gesture to aid in the nation-wide salvage drive now in progress. City Manager Sam King was instructed to investigate the situation thoroughly before action is taken.

The world-famous statue, presented at impressive ceremonies here in 1929, was removed in June, 1940, when Italy began warring on the democracies. City officials explained that anonymous threats received by telephone had endangered the statue, so it has been stored in the city hall basement since that time.

Krueger's Men Battle Along 40-Mile Front

Louisiana Maneuvers Closely Scrutinized by High Officers.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY. Somewhere in Louisiana, Aug. 4.—(P)—Numerous hot clashes throughout Tuesday and all of last night between advance Red and Blue elements screening the movements of their main bodies marked the first day's combat maneuvers of the VIII Army Corps of Lieutenant General Walter Krueger's fighting Third Army.

From the crack of dawn, when the field problem got under way, both forces displayed driving aggressiveness. By early afternoon their patrols had covered many miles across each other's borders, fought a number of hot skirmishes and were deep in each others' territory.

The operations proceeded under the close personal scrutiny of General Krueger, who toured the rugged 40-mile battle area, talking to scores of officers and soldiers.

Other members of his Third Army staff, known as the directors group, also scoured the combat zone, closely following the handling of the various participating elements. Among these officers were Colonel Clyde D. Edelman, Colonel J. S. Robinson, deputy directors.

Major General Dan I. Sulton, commander of the Eighth Army Corps; Colonel George Baker, his chief of staff, and other corps staff officers also speeded about the area observing operations.

Fox Appeal Dismissed by Federal Court

Former Movie Magnate's Prison Sentence Still Stands.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The third United States circuit court of appeals today dismissed the appeal of William Fox, one-time millionaire movie magnate, from a sentence of a year in prison on charges of intent to obstruct justice and defraud the government.

The decision, written by Judge Herbert F. Goodrich, was unanimous.

Fox pleaded guilty of a conspiracy with former Circuit Court Judge J. Warren Davis and Morgan S. Kaufman, Scranton attorney, in which the government charged that the movie man sought to obtain favorable decisions on litigation arising from his bankruptcy in 1936.

In two separate trials, juries failed to agree on the charges against Davis and Kaufman and the case against them was dropped.

The prosecution charged that Judge Davis while on the bench accepted loans totaling $27,500 from Fox and that Kaufman was the intermediary.

After the trials, Davis resigned. Fox's sentence, imposed by Federal Judge Guy K. Bard, included a $3,000 fine. He appealed to the circuit court after Judge Bard refused to quash the indictment against him and also declined to permit him to change his plea to innocent.

Fox testified for the government against Davis and Kaufman. He contended then he was entitled to an acquittal on the basis of the juries' failure to agree in those trials.

Judge Goodrich, in his decision today, declared that "the conviction of some alleged conspirators does not fall because others named are acquitted."

Fox, the decision said, entered the guilty plea "with his eyes open."

Fox's fortune was estimated in 1929 at $35,000,000. When he filed his bankruptcy plea in 1936 he listed liabilities of almost $10,000,000.

NAVY'S MISSING—Willis S. Pirkle (left), Jack E. Hunt (center), of Atlanta, and John Donald Hadden (right), of Red Oak, were listed as missing in the Navy's newest casualty list, issued today, which covers July 11 to 25, inclusive. All three were last heard from in the Philippines and are believed to be prisoners of war.

Two Atlantans Listed Missing In Navy Report

Newest Casualty List Includes W. S. Pirkle, Jack E. Hunt.

Listed as missing in the Navy's newest casualty list, made public today, are Willis S. Pirkle and Jack E. Hunt, Atlantans, and John Donald Hadden, of Red Oak, Ga.

Pirkle, of 867 Hollywood avenue, was a carpenter's mate, first class. Forty-three years old, he had been in the Navy 17 years, and was to have retired from service last February. When a Constitution reporter called on his wife Sunday, it was the first Mrs. Bertha C. Pirkle, and her 16-year-old daughter, Dotie, had heard of him since last Christmas, at which time he was stationed in Manila aboard a Navy PT (torpedo) boat.

Wounded December 10, and taken to a hospital in Cavite, Hadden, 24, had been in the Philippines 13 months when his mother, Mrs. T. A. Hadden, of Red Oak, had word from the Navy department July 11 that he has been a Japanese prisoner since the fall of Manila. Hadden had been in the Navy two years, and last saw service, according to a letter he wrote his parents in November, aboard the U. S. S. Pecos at Manila. His brother, Billy, 18, is in the Army.

Hunt cabled Christmas greetings to his mother, Mrs. Eunice Morrison, of 457 Holderness street, December 20, saying he was "tired and happy," and the Navy Department's notice that he was missing, which she received three weeks ago, was the first she had heard of him since. In the Navy three months, Hunt, who was 22, last month, sent his mother his picture from Shanghai, where he was stationed for a year and a half prior to his transfer to Manila in October, 1941.

A graduate in 1938 of Tech High school, Hunt worked in the advertising department of a local newspaper before he enlisted, at which time he told his mother to "hold your chin up."

"And I am," Mrs. Morrison said. "It will take a lot of chin-up now. Since I'm in the Army and Navy both." (Her other son, Eldred Hunt, is a sergeant in the Army.)

This Navy casualty list, number nine, covered personnel losses for the period July 11 to 25, inclusive. There were no Coast Guard casualties included.

Greater part of Navy diverted elsewhere; Navy not large enough yet to handle situation; patrol ships more necessary elsewhere, 27 per cent.

Spies in this country, fifth-column work, loose talk, 18 per cent.

Germans had large number of submarines already built and use them cleverly, 17 per cent.

Our Navy caught off guard; not smart enough, 13 per cent.

Insufficient co-operation between Army and Navy, 2 per cent.

Miscellaneous, 5 per cent.

No opinion, 26 per cent.

The miscellaneous category includes a few who blamed lights along the shore and lack of civilian co-operation. Some respondents gave more than one reason; hence the table above totals more than 100 per cent.

Biggest Problem. In a companion survey the country was asked what, in its opinion, constitutes the most important problem which the United States faces in winning the war.

The results show clearly that the shipping problem, including the combating of submarine attacks, is the one which is worrying the country most at the present time.

More than one-third (36 per cent) of all voters questioned named the shortage of shipping as the main problem. About one-fifth (18 per cent) consider speeding up production of all war materials the prime problem, while a few (8 per cent) believe that uniting the people behind the war effort is the main task ahead.

Other scattered replies included the solving of shortage problems, combating spies, mobilizing civilian manpower for industry, and increasing the size and improving the training of the Army.

Atlantan Back From England To Join American Signal Corps

By PRIVATE ELMO ISRAEL. Take it from Eugene S. Goza, Atlanta, one of Uncle Sam's newest Army privates, the English soldiers have a well-known food that they eat at nearly every meal. And would you believe it? It's potatoes!

Goza knows from first-hand observation because he's just returned from a nine-month stay with the British, where he worked as a radio repairman in the Civilian Technical Corps. He was inducted into the United States Army this week at Fort McPherson.

"When a notice came through recently that all members of the corps who wanted to might come home and join the Army, I grabbed at the opportunity," says Goza. But he admits that it was rather difficult leaving a land he's learned to like very much and a young English girl who's very pretty.

Wants to Return. In fact, Private Goza hopes he's sent back very soon to join the American boys already in the British Isles. "It's the foreign port I hope to see," he says.

Goza admires the English people for their calmness and determination. "I've seen them go through hellish air raids, and I've watched them tighten their belts with food rationing, but they always keep smiling with confidence," he explains.

The Atlanta youth volunteered for service in the Civilian Technical Corps back in September of 1941. He went to a radio school in Cranwell, Lincolnshire, Eng-

Georgia Pilot, C. W. Harp, Is Said Missing

Columbus Flyer Who Downed 2 Nazi Planes 'Missing in Action.'

COLUMBUS, Ga., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Pilot Officer C. Woodruff Harp, Columbus flyer credited with shooting down two Nazi fighter planes, is missing in action.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Euehee W. Harp, said today that the war ministry in Ottawa had notified them that the 32-year-old Royal Canadian Air Force pilot had failed to return from an aerial mission.

The news came the same day that a brother, Dixon Harp, completed another phase of his air training by graduation with a class at Maxwell Field, Ala.

Woodruff Harp advised his parents that the two Nazi planes were shot down over northern France last May after he had become separated by his squadron and was "surrounded by 12 to 15 enemy fighters."

He entered the RCAF in September of 1941 from Columbus.

Love Has the Soothing Effect Of a Deadly Demolition Bomb

BALTIMORE, Aug. 4.—(AP)—"Love"—take it from a woman biochemist and diet authority—"is more likely to ruin the digestion and appetite than a wrestling match with a starving tiger."

More specifically, "it has the soothing effect of a demolition bomb," declared Dr. Ernestine Becker, associate in biochemistry at the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene.

That's her reply to the theory of Dr. Jack Nagler, of the New York Institute of Dietetics, that love may lead people to a wholesome, balanced diet—even to ordering spinach. The way he puts it, looking into or thinking about those heavenly blue eyes may make you forget settled habits, even in food, and you reach for a carrot instead of a potato.

Not so, said Dr. Becker, commenting: "Dr. Nagler is skating on paper-thin ice. He evidently thinks that love means serenity and happiness. He should read more novels and poetry and less dietetics. Then he'd know that love is just as likely to give you a stomachache as it is to pep you up."

A person serenely happy—say just after talking to some old friends—will get more out of his spinach and carrots than the lover, the Hopkins biochemist thinks.

"Successful love, well-adjusted love, might have the same effect," she said, "but, as all agree, the course of love is not smooth. Our lover has just as much chance of being depressed as being delighted."

WPB Studying New Plan To Ration Mileage

Fuel Oil Curtailment in East Now Seen by OPA.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—As an alternative to nationwide gasoline rationing to save rubber, the War Production Board is reported today to be considering a speedometer-checking plan to "ration mileage."

Simultaneously a high official of the office of price administration said fuel oil rationing in the east was a "distinct possibility" unless other drastic steps were taken. Limitation of gasoline deliveries as far west as the Mississippi was under consideration, he said, to free tank cars for hauling petroleum east.

Officials who would not permit use of their names said the "mileage rationing" proposal before WPB called for the registration of every automobile and the allocation of a specified number of miles to each through "certificates of necessity" issued to drivers.

Alternative Plan.

WPB held its weekly session today and Chairman Donald M. Nelson said as he entered the session that the board had before it an alternative plan as a substitute for countrywide rationing of motor fuel. When the meeting broke up, however, Nelson reported merely that "a decision will be made shortly on a savings in transportation."

It was indicated that the "mileage rationing" proposal said to be before the board did not call for abandonment of the present gasoline rationing in the east. The east coast's rationing is caused by the shortage of petroleum shipping facilities; the other plan is viewed solely as a tire saving measure and would apply to all the country except the east.

Each driver, it was said, would be allotted a certain basic mileage for "family use," with additional mileage allowed on the basis of vocational need. At intervals speedometers would be checked to determine whether the mileage had been exceeded.

Penalties for Drivers.

Offending drivers might be penalized through refusal to renew their certificates or curtailment of the mileage in the succeeding period, unless they could show good cause for exceeding the allotted mileage.

OPA officials made it plain, however, that they still considered gasoline rationing on a nationwide basis to be the only fool-proof method of keeping all rubber-borne vehicles on the road until sufficient synthetic rubber comes in to provide tires for civilians.

A high OPA official—who also requested anonymity—disclosed that OPA already had printed most of the forms which would be necessary for gasoline rationing on a national scale. WPB had decided on this drastic measure in July, he said, but President Roosevelt intervened.

Mileage on Tires.

This official said OPA estimates showed that there would be 6,500 miles of driving on the average on the nation's tires by October 1. There were 10,000 miles on the average tire at the start of the year.

This mileage cannot drop lower than 4,000 miles, he said, because this is the minimum at which recapping is possible, but the 4,000-mile danger point will be reached by March or April, 1943, unless driving is curtailed.

This same source declared, however, that before Labor Day fuel oil will be a bigger rationing problem. Even if the east's present consumption of gasoline were cut 25 per cent—through harsher rationing or other measures—there still would remain a fuel oil shortage of 100,000 barrels a day, he estimated.

Gandhi Favors Japanese

Gandhi made it clear that he not only did not favor, but still does favor, negotiations with Japan for an independent India.

"I purposely incorporated the sentence about negotiations with Japan, and if ultimately it was dropped and I associated myself with the deletion, I did so out of regard for my co-workers—not because I was uncertain as to what I meant to do."

"If India became an independent nation tomorrow I would certainly plead with the provisional government to send me, old as I am, to Japan and I would plead with her as the first instance to free China, her great neighbor, from the menace Japan has become and to tell her if she doesn't do this elementary justice she shall have to count on the stubborn resistance of millions who would at long last find themselves in possession of the thing which the nation prizes before everything else."

The government declared the seized papers showed that even the minority "was only anxious that the resolution (on civil disobedience) should be so phrased that the congress position before world opinion would not be compromised."

This resolution was defeated, the government said, only upon insistence of the more moderate Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru that "it inevitably would make the world think we were passively linking up with the Axis powers."

Actually, the government statement said, the Indian chairman in urging acceptance of this substitute "held there was practically no difference between the two drafts," and this was borne out by the seized documents.

The major intention, said the government, "was expressly to obtain freedom for the congress to negotiate with the Japanese. If this failed there would be only nonviolent resistance of them."

Gandhi accused the government of "reprehensible" action in seizing congress documents and making "illegitimate" use of them by publishing them, but said there was nothing in them that any congress party member need be ashamed of.

Nehru contended the government quotation of Gandhi on Japan was "entirely incorrect" because it was "torn from its context."

Nehru said the documents were only brief, disjointed notes and that important qualifications had been omitted.

"What he (Gandhi) repeatedly said and what I referred to," Nehru insisted, "is his belief that unless Britain changes her whole policy in regard to India and her colonial possessions she is heading for disaster."

Invitation to Invasion, According to London.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Informed British sources today described Mohandas K. Gandhi's desire to negotiate with Japan as an invitation to Japan to invade India.

Those who are well posted on Indian politics said, however, there was little reason to assume that the disclosure of Gandhi's frame of mind would "substantially weaken Gandhi's following in India, although it might influence many moderates and possibly small groups within the Congress party itself."

Flames Sweep Big Top

beasts, terrified the rows of elephants and zebras, and defied the flailing shovels and buckets of mechanical crews, a few performers and trainers, the circus firemen and the city's police and firemen.

Most Elephants Saved.

The mahouts got most of the elephants away from the edge of the blazing tent. James Santangelo, 22, of New London, Conn., a circus usher, received a torn right hand when it was caught by an elephant hook, and Walter McClean, head elephant trainer, was burned about the face.

One zebra broke loose. Two giraffes had to be shot as the flames roared around them, to keep them from running wild. Big John and his helpers stayed in the tent as long as they could. "I stayed until it got too hot to stand any longer," Big John said later.

A noonday crowd of 5,000 rushed to the grounds near the foot of Ninth street in the downtown district. One bystander, William Pratt, said, "In no time at all the sides and tops of the canvas were down. You saw the sides of the animal cages in flames and heard the screams and shrieks of tortured beasts."

"It sounded like a jungle, in the movies."

Sparks flew to the horse tent, and there was a scramble to lead the animals away. In the midst of the confusion one of the elephants had to be put out of his pain with eight revolver shots.

When it was time for the afternoon show, North announced the circus would have to miss one performance, but would go on as usual tonight. Replacement of the animals, difficult even in peacetime, will be attempted with the help of zoos.

The men with the guns had done their work. Tractors began to pull away the seared carcasses. Tired roustabouts filled in the mudholes with fresh sawdust, others began chipping blistered paint from the wagons, and as the "lot" returned to normal the trapeze artists, the clowns, the trainers, the barkers and all the retainers of the big top began to fit themselves back into the routine of the show. Back of the performers' tent two aerialists, one with a baby resting in the crook of his arm, set up a chess game on a camp stool.

It was the second misfortune for the circus within a year. Last fall 11 elephants were poisoned. It also was the big show's most serious fire since 1916, when 84 horses were lost in five minutes at Huntsville, Ala.

Marines Here Start School For Recruiters

Sergeant Faulk Ordered To Pass Knowledge to Others.

Lieutenant Colonel John D. O'Leary, the Marines' super-recruiter, has turned up with another innovation designed to bring the Leathernecks more new men.

Organization of a school for more intensive training of the Marines' recruiting staff was announced yesterday. The school, to be held in Atlanta at the Marine's offices, 76 Forsyth street, will be headed by First Sergeant W. T. Faulk.

Sergeant Faulk, a Marine for 20 years with 13 of them spent in recruiting, knows more about recruiting than any man in the southern division, according to the colonel, and he wants the knowledge passed down the line.

Sergeant Faulk will teach the new recruits when they return from Parris Island and San Diego boot camps. The intensive, specialized training will be given in three weeks of school.

During that time Sergeant Faulk will go into all phases of recruiting examinations, process of enlistment, administration and public relations.

Several recruiters already are taking training before being sent to southern division stations.

Carmichael Hits Talmadge On Race Issue

ministration of former Governor Rivers, Carmichael said he did not think he "would ever live to see a Governor who could and would belittle the taxpayers more than wasteful Ed Rivers did, but, to behold, Gene, the great economist, the great saver, the great friend of the taxpayer, has gouged your already nearly empty pockets of $16,376,000 more than Ed Rivers ever did."

"Gene out-Riversed Rivers," Talmadge's claim of economizing and saving "is bull of the rankest sort," said Carmichael, adding that the present administration had 721 more employees on the state payroll June 30 than Rivers had and has not otherwise cut down overhead or "stretched the state's dollars."

Turning to Talmadge's statement that he has paid $22,000,000 in debts in the last 18 months, Carmichael said this has not been accomplished by economizing but by collection of $16,376,000 more in taxes.

Furthermore, he said, "Gene settled $2,803,000 of Ed Rivers' debts by just cancelling the contracts. He just cancelled orders that had been placed. More than $8,000,000 of the Rivers debt, he went on, was in road contracts let to mature against revenues accruing in 1941 and involved no economizing."

School Debt.

He added that the $3,500,000 school debt paid off by Talmadge was created to tide the schools over the early part of the year because a large part of the revenue is not received until after the first school months. When it was collected, he said, Talmadge simply repaid the loan as required by law.

"And so it goes," said Carmichael, adding that the Governor's talk of paying debts by economizing is "just another instance where Gene is using your wool hat to pull the wool over your eyes."

He asserted, in indorsing Arnall as a man who will restore decency in the state government, that "I am sick unto death of black bow ties and red suspenders."

THE COLLECTOR.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Wilfred T. Neill Jr. was able to tell exactly where a friend in military service mailed a letter from, although it bore no postmark. The friend described republican life peculiar to only one part of the world. Neill knows something about snakes, having 75 live ones and more than 2,500 preserved specimens, the latter carefully classified and scientifically labelled.

Roosevelt Declares All 'Black Market' Steel Jobbers Ought To Be Sent to Jail

Some Evading Rule by Cutting Load a Pound

Higgins' Son Testifies That Supplies Are Plentiful.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today that anyone selling steel on a "black market" should be jailed, and the Office of Price Administration ordered an immediate investigation of reports that black market sales had been made to the Higgins Shipbuilding Yards in Louisiana.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson said the action was taken on the basis of testimony before a congressional committee by Frank Higgins, who is associated with his father, Andrew Jackson Higgins, in operation of shipyards in the New Orleans area.

Higgins told the committee, at a session in New Orleans today, that while the construction of the Higgins Shipbuilding Yards had been ordered halted on the ground that steel was lacking, an abundance of the metal could be obtained on the "black market."

He said "you'd have to pay premium prices to get this black market steel." Such sales were unethical, he said, but not illegal. He called it "legal profiteering but as black as the ace of spades."

At Mr. Roosevelt's press conference, a reporter credited the statements about the black market to Andrew Jackson Higgins, the head of the concern, whereas they were actually made by Frank Higgins, his son. The latter said the Higgins company had found enough black market steel to make 200 lighters.

Jail Terms Urged.

Mr. Roosevelt said he thought those people ought to go to jail. "Including Mr. Higgins?" a reporter asked.

Mr. Roosevelt laughingly replied that Higgins was not included, since he was turning state's evidence.

There was no definition during the press conference of what was meant by black market. Under government regulations, there is a price ceiling on carload lots of 40,000 pounds of steel, and higher ceiling on less-than-carload lots.

The Office of Price Administration has complained that some persons were selling at just under carload lots, say 39,999 pounds, to get the higher prices. It has denounced such sales as an evasion but has not referred to them as a black market.

However, despatches from New Orleans indicated that it was to such sales that Higgins referred. The President's remarks on Higgins' statement grew out of a discussion of the question of building huge flying boats, "flying boxcars," a reporter called them, in putting a question, and the shortage of steel as it might affect that question.

The President said he would give anything in the world to have more of them, but that the military men have decided whether they are more important than other things.

"Is it a choice between a bomber and a cargo plane," a correspondent asked, "or between a cargo plane and the things that go into ships or tanks?"

Many Things Involved.

These and many more things were involved, Mr. Roosevelt replied, and it became a question of deciding where available supplies of steel could be most advantageously used, a question which had to be decided by the men who are supposed to know the most about fighting.

The congressional subcommittee as a result turned its inquiry into the black market.

"This matter of a steel black market will be fully investigated not only here and in Washington enough about the country," said Representative Peterson, Democrat, Florida, chairman of the house subcommittee investigating the Maritime Commission's cancellation of the A. J. Higgins contract for building 200 Liberty ships last month because of the alleged shortage of steel.

Will Be Public Relations Officer in Atlanta.

Lieutenant Ted Mann, Navy public relations officer, yesterday returned to his old haunts in Atlanta camouflaged behind a deep coating of Florida tan.

He had been assigned to the naval base at Jacksonville, but recently was reassigned to the Naval Reserve aviation base here as public relations officer for Atlanta.

Before going on active duty with the Navy, Mann did public relations for Duke University and was popular with newspapermen throughout the country.

Lieutenant Mann, Lieutenant Commander Peyton Anderson Jr., who is public relations officer for the Sixth Naval District, and Lieutenant (jg) Riley Powell, former Rome newspaperman, visited the editorial offices of The Constitution yesterday afternoon.

Lieutenant Powell, who has been doing publicity for the Navy here, is to report to the new naval preflight training school in Athens Monday as public relations officer there.

Phillips was pleased with the way in which the control center worked during its first actual test. "It was unusually successful," he said, "and George Brodnax Jr. deserves credit for doing an outstanding job on organizing the center. All services co-operated and most of the wardens did good jobs."

Vital City.

Pointing out that Atlanta is the largest and one of the most vital cities in his region, Charles H. Murchison, civilian defense regional director, praised Phillips and his staff for their work.

"I was in the control center during the practice," Murchison said, "and it worked with more smoothness and efficiency than any of the many I have observed during their first tests."

"It takes constant practice to develop the right set-up and plenty of work. Atlanta is on the right track with a firm and intelligent foundation."

One of the mistakes which attracted attention Monday night was the failure of all ambulances to get to the scene of the downtown bombing. This was due to a mistake in relaying a message, Phillips said.

Clearing Units For Truckers To Be Formed

13 Stations in Georgia Expected To Speed Hauling.

Plans are being formulated for establishment of 13 clearing houses in Georgia in line with orders designed to bring about maximum utilization of over-the-road trucks, John G. Caley, ODT motor transport representative, announced yesterday.

Caley said he expected plans being prepared by the Motor Vehicle Association of Georgia to be submitted this week.

After being held in his office here pending possible filing of protests for 10 days, they will be forwarded to Washington for approval.

Initial Units.

Caley reported that the first of the association's joint information offices, which will serve as registration centers for the exchange of equipment and freight, are proposed for Atlanta, Dalton, Rome, Gainesville, Athens, LaGrange, Columbus, Macon, Augusta, Savannah, Waycross, Valdosta and Albany.

Effective September 1, private and contract as well as common carriers will be required to secure clearance from an information office before traveling without full load, or to contact other carriers if no office in their office.

The offices are being established, Caley said, to receive information regarding the availability of trucks and freight and to furnish this information to all carriers who apply for it. If necessary, he added, to bring about a better utilization of facilities, trucks must be leased or rented to other carriers for specified trips.

Speed Hauling.

He predicted the new regulations, supplanting previous orders which would have prohibited trucks from traveling with less than 75 per cent return loads, would speed up the movement of some freight in addition to conserving trucks and tires.

"Some of the ideas will be carried on after the war is over," Caley declared.

Orders already in effect require a reduction of 25 per cent as compared with last year in truck mileage, applying to local delivery trucks as well as over-the-road vehicles.

The clearing house provisions, however, will not apply to trucks engaged in hauling products and supplies to and from farms until after October 31.

ALWAYS ON GUARD

You value your things more, because you know how hard some of them will be to replace. So you should be very, very particular about who washes or dry cleans them—and on what kind of equipment.

To handle 26 million pounds of wash, to dry clean a million and a half pieces a year, Gold Shield has 9 plants, staffed with 2,000 trained people.

This is a big organization. It is a responsible organization. It can afford to have modern equipment, and to abandon old ways as soon as new ways are proven better.

From now on, let us protect your things, help make them last you for the duration.

All the Details For Casting of Absentee Votes

Requests Pouring Into Suttles' Office at Rate of 25 a Day.

With the hot Georgia elections just around the corner, The Constitution today presents detailed instructions for absentee voting for the benefit of those thousands upon thousands of persons who will be away from their homes on September 9—election date.

Already requests for absentee ballots are pouring into the Fulton county registrar's office at the rate of about 25 a day—and many more are expected before August 28, the closing date for obtaining absentee ballots.

Reason for Absence.

1. Applicant must have registered for voting prior to May 2, and must be otherwise qualified to vote as required by regular state voting laws.
2. If properly registered, he must write a letter to T. E. Suttles, Fulton county registrar, stating he will not be here September 9, and wishes to apply for an absentee ballot. He should state the reason for his absence. In this letter, he also should state the full and complete address to which he wants the absentee ballot sent, and he must enclose 24 cents for registered mail postage, as required by law. The request for an absentee ballot must reach the registrar not earlier than 60 days and not later than 10 days before the election. The marked ballot must be received by the registrar in time to be counted with the other ballots cast.
3. Upon receipt of the request, Suttles will mail a ballot to the voter at the designated address.
4. The voter will receive one large envelope. This envelope, numbered 4, will contain envelopes No. 1, No. 2, and No. 3. The voter opens No. 4 and finds No. 1, which contains his ballot. No. 1 envelope is sealed and must be opened only in the presence of the postmaster or other designated official. (Soldiers and sailors may open their envelopes No. 1 in the presence of commissioned officers.) Attached to envelope No. 1 is a certificate certifying that the voter is properly registered in Fulton county. Also attached is a coupon for the postmaster, or other designated official, to fill out, and accompanying these two, are instructions on the procedure of absentee voting.
5. After the voter and the postmaster, or other designated official, have read the instructions, the voter takes the ballot from envelope No. 1, and marks it the way

Birmingham Man Bopped In 'Air Raid'

The recent "air raid" at Birmingham was plenty realistic, what with flour bombs raining. In fact, it was so realistic that there was one actual casualty—one where first-aiders worked without fear of the victim's becoming tired and walking off.

Reason for Absence.

A half-pound flour sack dropped from a plane bopped a luckless citizen. He went down stunned. But a sniff of ammonia and a bit of rubbing had him on his feet a few minutes later. Charles H. Murchison, regional civilian defense director, reported.

STAMP, STAMP, STAMP.

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 4.—(AP)—The Sigma Nus at the University of Georgia annually give an informal dance at the fraternity's country home. The affair is known as the saddle shoe stomp. This year's dance became a stamp stomp. For every "break" a boy had to buy a war stamp and paste it in the war stamp book given each girl attending. At the end of the evening the girl with the most stamps was given a prize.

Man Foolish To Allow Family To Choose His Wife

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie:

When I was 18 years old I married a girl for spite. The girl I really loved eloped with one of my buddies, and I felt that if I married someone else it would hurt her. I was wrong, for I was the one hurt. I am now a 45-year-old widower. The girl I love is a widow. Her husband died the year after she married, and if I had not been such a fool and run away with another girl, I would have been free to marry her. Years went by and I lived with a wife who did nothing to make me happy. I go with the girl whom I first loved, but am running into trouble at home. I would like to see her more often, and I think she feels the same way toward me, because she told me that youthful mistakes were oftentimes the worst. I think she meant her early marriage.

I live with my sister. She has never married, and she tells me I am nothing but a fat old fool to want to step out. She gets furious every time I mention going anywhere, and one time when I mentioned this old love of mine, she hit the ceiling and said she doubted if the woman would consider me as a friend much less as a beau. She tells me that it would be a disgrace to my wife's memory to go out again and much less think of marriage. I respected my wife and was good to her, but as for the great passion—I did not have it. My only son is with the Army in Australia, so I have nothing to hold me from going with her. What do you think I should do?

LONESOME WIDOWER.

Pay no attention to your sister and go on out with this old girl and have a good time. It is possible that she realizes her mistake as you do yours, and the two of you can at long last find the happiness you both cast aside in a fit of youthful misunderstanding. Just let your sister sit at home and pout and fuss and rave, and blow up the house as much as she wants to. She is probably bitter about her own situation anyway, and will resent anything you will do in regard to association with the opposite sex.

I think you and this woman are very lucky indeed to have had Fate work out the present plan to throw you together again and if you still love her, now is your chance to marry her. It often happens that the happiest marriages are those which come late in life. You are young yet and should be at your most attractive and fascinating age.

TIME MAY BRING LOVE

Dear Dixie:

I am going with a married man and he tells me he loves me. I also go with a man who is a wid-over with a small child. I have been going with this married man for a year and I love him, but I hate to break up his family and home. I do not know what to do as the widower tells me he loves me, too, but I have known him such a short time, that I do not think it could be possible. Will you give me some advice?

WORRIED MIND.

It is too bad you had not thought a little sooner about breaking up the married man's home and family. The situation has now arrived at the love stage and you are well on the way of breaking the lives of this man's family as well as your own. If he loves you, has he ever mentioned divorce in order that you two can marry? I'll bet he has not, and probably will not either. As long as you will go with him while he is married, the less chance you have of his ever doing anything about it. Better stop seeing him for a while.

The widower sounds all right. Sometimes people fall in love at first sight, so you see the length of time one knows some one has nothing whatsoever to do with their love. It is just how long they remain in love with you that counts. Just because he tells you he loves you is no reason that you have to marry him. Why not go along with him and perhaps you will fall in love with him.

POINTS FOR PARENTS

By Edythe Thomas Wallace.

Mother: "There are no children in this neighborhood. Barbara's age, so we invited her little cousin to spend the month with us."

When playmates are not at hand, some should be imported, if this is at all possible.

Mother: "I don't see why you can't be happy playing alone. You have all sorts of dolls and toys. Go play with some of them and quit bothering me."

There's much talk heard today about copying our men-folk's consciously tailored look, their perfect posture and healthy outdoor bronze. Copy the two latter points, ladies, but on the first go easy enough to maintain strictly feminine charm.

The W.A.A.C. Builds Better Figures

By Ida Jean Kain.

An individual would have to pay a tidy sum to get the physical conditioning that is scheduled for the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps. Until we had the WAAC, the movie stars were about the only ones who didn't look upon a daily supervised workout as a dispensable luxury.

The fair recruits will not be going through their paces for the same reason as the film beauties but they will get some of the same exercises and we can expect to see streamlined figures in this branch of our military service.

Catherine Van Rensselaer, in charge of this phase of their training, is a great believer in physical conditioning to make the woman equal to her wartime job. Before taking over for the Army she directed the physical conditioning for a leading woman's organization in New York city. As the members went into various voluntary services, their programs were geared to the extra and harder work.

Among housewives, office workers and professional women it's the exceptional woman who does not waste energy by working in poor posture. Working with your body at a mechanical disadvantage tires you more quickly than anything else. Besides, if you are doing heavy work there is the danger of strain. Learn to work with your back straight, your hips under your trunk.

In her program for civilian classes, the Army expert stressed exercise for better muscle tone. But where these groups worked indoors on mats and horizontal bars, the Danish "body freeing" exercises she favored for the WAAC are better suited to the outdoors. The Army will exercise for 45 minutes every day. If you will do this set for just one-third as long out in your back yard, you can put yourself in shape to "take it," and you can take on streamlines.

1. Stand with hands resting on shoulders, feet slightly apart. Stretch arms overhead as you raise alternate knees toward chest. Do this to rhythmic count.

2. Stand with hands down at sides. Fling arms up and out at sides as you swing left leg straight out to side. Continue for 12 counts. Rest and repeat with right leg.

3. Stand with feet about 18 inches apart, hands clasped high overhead, pulled slim through middle. Bend acutely sideward, first to right, then to left.

4. Do the "cross-to-fly." Stand erect with hands crossed in front of body at wrists. Fling arms up and out at sides shoulder-level or higher, as you rise on toes.

5. Stand with arms out at sides, shoulder-level, feet apart. Twist and bend sideward to touch right hand to ground at far side of left foot. Swing up, stretch and swing around to touch left hand to ground at far side of right foot. Do this to count.

Cut down useless expenditure of energy by acquiring the knack of working with your body in good alignment. The exercises in "Posture Makes the Figure" also make for efficiency. Send stamped return envelope for these.

Dr. Brady Tells Advantages Of "Hospital Babies"

By Dr. William Brady.

One allusion in your column has always puzzled me some, says a medical colleague. Although I understand precisely what you mean by it I wonder whether you invented the term "Saireygamp" or "Saireygamping."

It is reassuring, to find that there are some people with more claim to literary conversance than I shall ever have who do not know the origin of Sairey Gamp. Sairey, Doctor, it was only by chance that I stumbled on her one day when I could find nothing worth reading and had to content myself with a dip into Martin Chuzzlewit by an insufferably long-winded fellow named Dickens. In his time Dickens ground out dozens of interminable stories and, it would seem, had a following of readers large enough to pay for publication. Today he'd be out of luck, for his style of humor and his narrative technique could get nowhere in 2,500 words.

In the early days of my practice in the country I encountered Sairey in the flesh long before I found her in the pages of the book about in Martin Chuzzlewit. She came bouncing in just as I was severing the umbilical cord. She tried to push her way right into the environment, but by dint of constant weeping about I managed to keep her behind me, so she cautioned me, "Be sure to leave me lots of cord, doctor," and I took particular pains to leave none at all.

Two or three days later Sairey and I came to close quarters across the patient's bed. Sairey had in her kit a breast pump which she announced she used for the first few days. I ordered that the baby be put to the breast every two hours and that nothing else be done without my express permission and I made it clear to every one that the slightest infraction of this would compel me to withdraw from any further attendance. Well, that time, for once, I got away with it. But the next day of five Sairey beat me badly in such set-tos. I was young then—as I grew older and more experienced I didn't clash with Sairey if I could possibly avoid open conflict. Being the family's choice of nurse, not mist, Sairey had an advantage, you see.

Because it is so much easier for a doctor to attend a confinement in a well equipped hospital than it is to attend the patient in her own home, a great many babies who should be born at home are subjected to the hazard of being born and nursed for a week or two in a hospital these days. Of course many "homes" are hardly suitable for such an event, especially the abodes of apartment dwellers, but in any case the baby, not to mention the mother, is subjected to fewer risks at home, in my opinion.

A reader who has tried having babies at home and in the hospital says she prefers the hospital because:

1. One gets a rest for ten days after the birth.
2. Not knowing which baby is squalling one can shut her ears and let the nurse worry.
3. Pleasant surroundings and new ideas.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Claustrophobia

It will please many readers like myself, no doubt, if you would write an article on claustrophobia some time.

(Miss J. W.)

Answer—Claustrophobia is Latin for a confined place. Phobia is Greek for a morbid fear or dread of something. Not natural or reasonable fear, but irrational fear, such as fear of being in an open space (agoraphobia) or of empty rooms (cenophobia) or fear of height (acrophobia). We'll talk about natural and morbid fear some day soon.

Quinine for Vertigo.

I want to thank you for the suggestion of quinine for vertigo. Began taking the treatment as you described last fall and the results were wonderful. I go everywhere alone now and do not have the slightest dizzy feeling any more.

(Mrs. R. M. C. W.)

Answer—The quinine treatment was suggested for Meniere's syndrome (deafness with attacks of vertigo). It was introduced by the famous Charcot, French neurologist, many years ago.

Ivy Poisoning.

Being a registered nurse I have found your formula for susceptibility to poison ivy remarkably effective, for myself and for my son. We take the diluted solution of this tincture, beginning in February and continuing more or less well into the summer. We are now immune. (D. P. R. N.)

Answer—Thank you. On request I am glad to send any reader a briefcase full of self-addressed stamped envelope, instructions for treatment of ivy poisoning and for immunizing against it.

MY DAY: A New Book

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK, Monday.—In the late afternoon yesterday I cleared up again. By the time a friend of mine arrived with her briefcase he was going to spend a few days with us, it was a warm, beautiful summer afternoon.

I spoke too soon when I said yesterday was a quiet day. I was inveigled into unpacking three cases and three barrels in the cellar of the big house and then into playing several games of deck tennis, until I was so weary that I wondered if I would be able to move at all this morning. Strangely enough, I seem to have limbered up again. However, I suppose I shall go right back and spend just as much time today on these active exercises.

The other day, Mr. Lunsford P. Yandell came to see me in New York City. From his briefcase he took three copies of a little book and told me the story of how he came across it. Because of his interest in the book, he located the original publisher and found several people who at one time or another had endorsed it. He is now having it republished, feeling that in the present crisis many people will find it valuable. In a letter to me after his visit, there occurs the following sentence:

"Conscientious parents are faced with the problem of giving their children a set of standards for their lives, some they lay on which to work, whether it is called religion, or by some other name. The great barrier to arousing a youngster's interest in religion as it is taught in the church, is the impatience of the child. To young people the Bible is a fearfully large book."

Mr. Yandell found a comment by Mr. Dale Carnegie, which strikes me as particularly interesting: "This little book contains the words of the greatest teacher of human relations the world has ever known. There is an urgent need for such a book. It should have been published centuries ago."

Well, here it is. You can carry it in your pocket or in your shopping bag and read it in odd moments. It is the complete sayings of Jesus, taken from the King James' Version, arranged by Arthur Hinds.

My generation was accustomed to reading some verses from the Bible morning and evening, or to having them read aloud in the family circle. Most of us had our favorite chapters and verses which we learned by heart and which still remain in our minds, no matter how our own special religious beliefs have developed. This is a good book to have, good company at all times.

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21-April 19 (ARIES)—The entire day is most favorable for meeting sympathetic and generous people. If you are interested in affairs of the heart, or in the purchase of chemicals or beverages, you should deal with others.

April 20-May 20 (TAURUS)—The day favors dealings with relatives, agents, teachers and travel, provided you use moderation. A good day to put new plans and ideas into operation.

May 21-June 20 (GEMINI)—The day does not especially favor new beginnings, if you wish for smooth and steady progress. The day favors dealings with friends, relatives and general business matters.

June 21-July 22 (CANCER)—Previous to 11:40 a. m. does not favor risks and gambles. There is likely to be a great deal of activity around you, the results will not be pleasant.

July 23-August 22 (LEO)—The better part of the day is before 12:40 noon, when it should be well to give your undivided attention to matters that will bring you personal benefit.

August 23-September 22 (VIRGO)—Before 9:08 a. m. favors ideas that are day and steady, would the entire day is not auspicious for new changes and beginnings.

September 23-October 22 (LIBRA)—Before 10:23 a. m. keep away from

Men Who Make 'This Is the Army' Will Accept No Pay Checks

By Louella Parsons.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 4.—(INS) There will be no pay checks forthcoming for the movie men who do their part to bring Irving Berlin's "This Is the Army" to the screen. Hal Wallis, elected to co-produce it with Jack Warner, has contributed his services. Michael Curtiz has agreed to direct it without salary and Casey Robinson will do the script as a gesture of his eagerness to help Uncle Sam.

Casey leaves for New York to confer with Irving Berlin in a few days and, of course, Irving is taking no money for the movie rights. The Army lads in the New York hit will be seen in the movie and possibly lieutenant Ronald Reagan will be recruited. As many actors now in production can be spared will join the cast and I hear that possibly Corporal Joe Louis, heavyweight champion, is practically set.

Had a long talk with Claudette Colbert who leaves Friday to spend some time with her husband, Dr. Pressman, who is in the Navy. She is really very happy to see him after so many weeks of separation. I hope Claudette will get a chance to talk to Juanita Redmond, or some of the nurses who escaped from Corregidor when she is in New York. You see she is to be starred in "Hands of Mercy" at Paramount. This is the story of the girls who risked their lives to take care of our boys who were wounded in Bataan. The picture goes into production early in October.

When "Edge of Darkness" is made at Warner's the character of the unhappy young German officer who has a love affair with a Norwegian girl will be completely changed. He will not be pictured as the sympathetic character described in the book. On the contrary, he will be the menace. I talked to Charles Einfeld who said that the invasion of Norway will be filmed as it actually happened and that Warner will not soften any of the Nazi characters.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Ginger Rogers and Anatole Litvak are going romantic on us; the Gary Coopers were again robbed and the burglars got away with cash and jewelry. Gary is on location at Sonoma and Mrs. C. and the baby are also out of town; Rudy Vallee reports in two weeks for Navy duty; everybody at the cocktail party given by Margaret Sullivan and Leland Hayward—the biggest shindig in months and the first given by the Haywards; Sam Briskin joins the Signal Corps as a major and he'll work with Major Frank Capra. He is now in Washington. That's all today.

Fats To Fight The Japs

Out of the frying pan into the firing line is the War Production Board's slogan for homemakers. The grease salvage campaign opened officially on the 13th of July, and now excess drippings from roasting pans and broilers are routed from kitchen to butcher, and from butcher to processor for use in explosives.

Fats are needed to make the glycerine that is used in explosives and in certain medications. Our supply source in the Far East is being cut off by the Japs. According to estimates five hundred million pounds of excess fats and greases are thrown away in the United States each year, and seventeen pounds of this waste kitchen grease, which is the hoped-for yearly average from each family, will make enough glycerine to provide power to fire 85 anti-tank shells.

Here's what to do:

1. Save all drippings from meats, and the fats used in frying doughnuts and potatoes.
2. Strain the grease through a cloth into a spotlessly clean, wide-mouthed metal container, such as a coffee can.
3. Keep this grease-salvage can in the refrigerator until at least a pound has accumulated.
4. Take the pound or more to the butcher at the corner grocery store, which is designated as a fat-collection station.

Here are a few don'ts:

- Don't take less than a pound at a time; don't take it in a glass or paper container; don't take it during weekend rush hours if this can be avoided; and don't let the grease get rancid, as the valuable glycerine content is considerably lower in rancid fats.

"Small Fry" Contribute Day Each Week to Charity Work

• • • • EIGHT LITTLE PLAYMATES who live in Ansley Park decided that conditions being what they are, they should not spend the entire summer in idle amusement. It was Jane Gatewood's idea that they give at least one day each week to work for charity.

Consequently, this group of "small fry" meets every Monday at her home on Avery drive and spends the entire day in sewing for less fortunate children or making scrapbooks for the children at Battle Hill sanatorium, or in doing something else worth while. You see, the little girls are all about 11 years old, and are pretty good at sewing. Their mothers supply them with outgrown or slightly out-of-commission clothes which they recondition and make wearable again.

One of their neighbors, Mrs. George Denman, has been very much interested in their constructive and highly commendable plan, so they appealed to her to dispose of their sewing. Accordingly, Mrs. Denman has turned over two big boxes of clothes to Dr. Felton Williams, who distributed them where they were most needed among the city's poor families.

The eight playmates include, in addition to Jane, Billie Bryant, Nancy Rumbert, Mary Gatewood, Sue Jane Rhea, Betty Hume, Betty Jane Upchurch, and Carolyn Kimbrough.

Among this group are Colonel and Mrs. Donald R. Goodrich and their son and daughter, Sally Hall and Edward Hall, who are residing on Camden road.

Colonel Goodrich is commandant of the Third Air Service Area Command, the headquarters of which were recently moved here from McDill Field, in Florida. He came to Atlanta from Washington, where Colonel Goodrich was stationed. Their young daughter attended Southern Seminary in Lexington, Va., last year, and although she is now visiting in Montgomery, Ala., she has made no definite plans for continuing her college career. Their son will attend North Fulton High school. Mrs. Goodrich, a native of Montgomery, Ala., is the former Sory Hurst, and visited Atlanta as a girl.

She originated the "Gala Evening With Gertrude Lawrence," when 10 talented men in the service of their country will appear with Gertrude Lawrence on August 21 at the event staged at Wianco Club to raise funds for the war work carried on by the Gertrude Lawrence Branch of the American Theater Wing. Mrs. Burns has a winter home in Pasadena, Cal., and spends her summers on Cape Cod.

Mrs. Burns also inaugurated last year the plan of Wianco Club members and colonists entertaining service men from Camp Edwards, a plan which this year has been developed into regular days-at-home, when colonists open their estates to groups of service men brought by truck from near-by camps.

Miss Summerville Weds Lt. Treadwell

Miss Margaret Elizabeth Summerville and Lieutenant John L. W. Treadwell were married at 4 o'clock Friday, at the Covenant Presbyterian church. Dr. Herman L. Turner was the officiating minister.

The church was attractively decorated with palms and white gladioli. There were no attendants.

The bride's costume was of navy blue faille taffeta. Her accessories were navy blue and white, and she wore a shoulder cluster of orchids.

The mother of the bride, Mrs. J. H. Summerville, wore a silk jersey print dress and a shoulder spray of gardenias. The groom's mother, Mrs. S. E. Treadwell, wore a black sheer dress with shoulder corsage of gardenias. Mrs. A. L. Rice, grandmother of the groom, wore a white silk dress and a shoulder spray of gardenias.

After the wedding an informal reception was held at the home of the groom's parents. Relatives and a few close friends were invited to call.

Out-of-town guests were Miss Martha Summerville, Miss Betsy Springer and Miss Mary Stephens, all of Charlotte, N. C.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. J. H. Summerville and the late Mr. Summerville, of Charlotte. Lieutenant Treadwell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney E. Treadwell, of Atlanta.

The couple left for a wedding trip to New Orleans.

Miss Gerrill Kohn's Marriage To Mr. Shealy Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Gerard E. Kohn, of Avondale Estates, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Gerrill Margaret Kohn, to Lieutenant James Owen Shealy, of Decatur, the ceremony having been solemnized on Tuesday evening, July 28, at St. John's Lutheran church, in Salt Lake City, Utah.

The bride chose for the ceremony a modish white crepe gown which she wore with white accessories and a cluster of purple orchids.

Mrs. Shealy, an attractive blonde, is a native of River Forest, Ill., but for some years has made her home in Avondale. She is the daughter of Miss Marilyn Kohn, and the granddaughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Kohn, of Oak Park, Ill., and of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Engelhardt, of Chicago, Ill.

The bride graduated from Decatur Girls' High school, where she was a member of Sigma Tau Delta sorority, and attended Draughton's School of Commerce. Recently she has been connected with the Retail Credit Company. She is an active member of the Tau Phi sorority.

Lieutenant Shealy is the son of Mrs. T. L. Shealy and the late Mr. Shealy, of Decatur. He graduated from Decatur Boys' High school and attended Atlanta Law School where he was a member of the Delta Theta Phi law fraternity. He entered the armed forces in January of this year, and was first stationed at Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Ala. Later he was transferred to the Santa Anna Air Corps Training Base and is a graduate of Class 42-10 Bombardiers, Victorville, Cal., Army Flying School where he received his commission. He and his bride are now residing at Tucson, Ariz.

Miss Hewitt and Lieut. Neas Announce Their Marriage

MARIETTA, Ga., August 4.—Wide interest is attached to the announcement of the recent marriage of Miss Sykes Barbour Hewitt, of Marietta, to Lucas McCann Neas, lieutenant, United States Army Air Corps, of Atlanta and Johnson City, Tenn.

The wedding took place at 7:30 o'clock in the evening in the terrace garden at the home of the bride's mother in Marietta with Rev. Alton Glasure, Presbyterian minister, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Charles Wood, of St. James Episcopal church.

Music was presented by Mrs. Alton Glasure at the piano, and Miss Adrian Cortelyou, soloist.

Miss Reaves Hewitt was her sister's maid of honor and was gowned in yellow faille overlaid with silk marquisette. She wore a halo of the same material.

Mrs. Jack Fulton, of Memphis, Tenn., and Mrs. Roy Hitchcock, of Athens, Ga., also sisters of the bride, were attendants, and wore similar gowns of pale blue mousseline de soie with full skirts. Their headresses were halos of blue. They carried bouquets of garden flowers with satin streamers knotted with asters.

Charles Neas, of Johnson City, Tenn., acted as best man for his brother, and the groomsmen were George Smith, of Boston, Mass., and Bruce McClure, of North Carolina. John Pollock Hewitt, of Lexington, Ky., gave his sister in marriage.

The bride was the fifth in her family to wear the exquisite ancestral wedding gown of real pointe applique lace, which was imported by A. T. Stewart, New York, from Worth's, Paris, as part of her grandmother's trousseau. The Empress of Austria owned its duplicate. The bodice was trimmed with pearl passementerie. The gown was posed over white satin, and a long-veil of tulle covered the entire train. The bride's bouquet was of gardenias.

An informal reception, given by the bride's mother, followed the ceremony. Mrs. Hewitt wore French blue chiffon with gardenias. Mrs. Neas, mother of the groom, wore a deeper shade of blue and her jewels were of antique coral. Her flowers were gardenias.

The couple left during the reception for a honeymoon in Asheville and Blowing Rock, N. C., before reporting to the Smyrna Air Field, Nashville, Tenn., where the

First-Bloom Troth Solemnized

Mr. and Mrs. Monie Alan Ferst yesterday issued announcements of the marriage of their only daughter, Miss Suzanne Ferst, to Dr. Walter Lyon Bloom, of Miami Beach, Fla., and New York, which took place on Sunday afternoon.

The ceremony was quietly solemnized at the Ferst home on Clifton road, with only members of the immediate families present. Rabbi David Marx officiated at 5 o'clock.

Mrs. Robert H. Ferst was matron of honor and only attendant for her sister, and Lieutenant Ferst, U. S. A., acted as best man for the groom.

The bride, who is a beautiful brunette, was given in marriage by her father.

Dr. Bloom and his bride left for a wedding trip to points of interest in the east, and will later go to New York, where they will reside until Dr. Bloom enters active service.

The engagement of the young couple was announced several months ago by Mr. and Mrs. Ferst. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Bloom, of Miami, Fla., and is now resident physician at the Chronos Disease hospital on Welfare Island. He is also an associate professor at Columbia University.

Young-Young

Mrs. Margaret Louise Young, of Atlanta, and James Marshall Young, of Bessemer, Ala., will be married on August 15, 1942, at Birmingham, Ala. The couple will reside in Bessemer, Ala., where the groom is associated with the B. F. Goodrich Company.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Neas. Mrs. Neas is the daughter of Mrs. Stafford Reaves Hewitt and the late Mr. Hewitt, who was prominent in business in Atlanta for 30 years, and head of the Steel Specialties Company. She is the great-granddaughter of Major Joseph Ivy Moore and through Major Moore's sister, Polly Moore, she is the great-grandniece of Judge and Mrs. Tom Cobb, for whom Cobb county is named. She attended school at the Nazareth Convent and Academy in Kentucky, and Oglethorpe University, Atlanta.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Lucas McCann Neas Sr., and the late Mr. Neas, of Johnson City, Tenn., and is the maternal grandson of Mrs. Charles Cleveland Coe, of Catskill, N. Y., and Johnson City, Tenn. L. Lafayette Neas, prominent landowner in Greenville, Tenn., is his paternal grandfather and he is the nephew of Colonel and Mrs. Cleveland Beach Coe, of Knoxville, Tenn. He attended St. Andrews school, Seawane, Tenn., and Georgia School of Technology, Atlanta, where he was a member of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

Golfers Fire Opening Shots For City Title

More Than 100 Expected To Qualify at Druid Hills Today.

The opening shots in the 1942 City Amateur golf tournament will be fired today at the Druid Hills Golf Club, where better than 100 local linksmen are scheduled to play their qualifying rounds. The first competitors are slated to tee off at 9 o'clock this morning with the final trio shoving off at 4 this afternoon.

Match play in all flights will open Thursday and continue through Sunday. One match will be played each day except Saturday when play will remain in the running will be required to face the barrier twice.

Prizes, which will be awarded to winners and runners-up in the various flights, will be won by bonds and stamps.

Professor Harry Stephens, the general Druid Hills pro, expects this year's tournament, although not drawing a record-breaking field as in recent years, to be one of the best. Last year's champion and present City Open champion, Charley Black Jr., last year's champion and present City Open champion, will be among the starters and is expected to make a determined fight to retain his crown. He should find the going anything but smooth, however, as young youngsters as Daney Baker, Buddy Smith, and Mickey Baker, Slim Eaden, Charles Omer, Bob Cousins, Dr. Julius McCoy, Bobby Moore and Bob McCarty are other prominent golfers in the championship flight.

The annual summer meeting of the City Golf Association will be held Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the clubhouse.

Luttrell Must Display Class To Pin German

Rudy Strongberg, handsome, bronzed and powerful German, is sure to make a good fight out of it in an effort to win Thursday night's headline at the City Auditorium. Strongberg's show against the unbeaten Golden Bred last week was by far the best made by any challenger to the masked giant thus far, despite the fact that the Terror has met such stalwarts of the mat here as Emil Dusek and Joe Cox.

A bit of accidental help from the referee was credited with saving the Terror's skin against Strongberg. Rudy wants a second crack at the masked villain, and Luttrell wants a first shot at the unknown prospect, providing the Terror will agree not to have his manager in the corner as a second. At any rate, he will have to cut loose with all the might in an effort to qualify for the meeting with the Terror, who has won 37 consecutive matches.

Abie Simon is presenting his usual strong card Thursday night. The show has moved up from the regular Friday date because the Kennedy, hard-rider, Babe Zaharias, in the semi-final, Zaharias has not appeared here for many months.

Popular Ronny Echinsson faces Jack Dillon in the first match. Wrestling interest is intensifying on the upswing here with increasingly larger crowds turning out for each show.

Neyland Adds Two Soldiers to Squad

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(P)—Two more soldiers were added today to the 35 already picked by Colonel Robert Neyland for the All-Amy football team which will play at Yale University. The former Mississippi back, and William H. West, ex-Tennessee tackle. Both are stationed at Keiser Field, Mississippi.

Colonel Neyland expects the Monday when he'll start practice for the team's debut against the New York Giants in the Herald-Tribune annual game for its Relief funds on September 12 at the Polo Grounds.

All Cleveland Ram Players in Fold

CLEVELAND, Aug. 4.—(P)—All the Cleveland Rams regulars have signed their football contracts to enter the fold.

The University of Mississippi passer, punter and runner for three years, yesterday came to the most generous grant by the local National League Club this year.

Hall came here in 1939 and in his freshman year completed 106 passes, which helped him win the league's most valuable player award for that season.

Milledgeville Golf Meet Starts Today

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Aug. 3.—The Echeta Country Club will be the scene of the annual golf tournament here Wednesday night. The tournament is in memory of the late J. Adrian Horne. Entries have been received from Macon, Griffin, Newnan, McDonough, Sanders, Gray and Atlanta and individuals plan to "tear off" or "tear off" Davis, manager.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(P)—

The stock market plodded along today without the benefit of much news stimulation and, while fairly well, many leaders finished in the losing ranks.

The cloudier Russian battle bulletins inspired trimming of offerings here and there, but the market was light throughout and the theory a lot of bear-counting.

The list started unevenly, stiffened later and encountered a little more selling in the final hour.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 1/2 of a point at 36.5. Of 601 individual issues traded, 203 were down, 107 up and 291 unchanged. Transfers against 279,220 shares.

Bonds were steady and commodities higher.

In the curb Aluminum of America was up a point and improvement was shown for American Gas, Humble Oil and United Fruit. In arrears fractions to a point or so were Creole Petroleum, Gulf Oil and Pittsburgh Plate Glass.

"GIRDLE" FOR INNER TUBES

Something of an innovation and a direct outgrowth of the nation's rubber emergency is a new cotton cord protector for tire inner tubes that will add thousands of miles to the life of the scrap heap. Although pronounced unfit for use and ticked for the scrap heap, the new inner tube protector, developed by the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, bears marked resemblance to that piece of feminine apparel known as the girdle. Its purpose is not to enhance the smooth symmetry of the tire's appearance, but to insulate and protect the tube against the chafing action of broken or otherwise damaged inner piles in the cord body of the tire. The "girdle" in a full circle to fit snugly and neatly around the tube.

Actual tests this new protector have proved effective. Even in the most extreme cases where the cord body of the tire is chafed and cut by the inner tube protector, the cord body of the tire is chafed and cut by the inner tube protector.

This work and slashed tire, are then under excessive flexing conditions, an additional distance of 4,055 miles before failure occurred.

Says Miss Dorothy St. Lawrence, of Providence, R. I., in the picture above, as she holds the folded cotton cord inner tube protector, "This Firestone has just developed a guard against the chafing of cut bodies and breaks in the St. Lawrence, who is taking Firestone's store manager training, has learned first-hand just the new "girdle" is used in.

Deductions for Debt, Insurance, Bonds Before Tax Group

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The Senate Finance Committee received today, with the outspoken approval of some members, proposals to allow individuals and business firms to make deductions from their income tax liabilities for payments on old debts, life insurance premiums and government bonds.

A suggestion by John Witherspoon, of Nashville, Tenn., president of the National Association of Life Underwriters, that such credits be allowed to individuals led Chairman George, Democrat, Georgia, to remark that the idea was "sensibly sound." Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, said he agreed with the objective in view.

Also warmly received by the committee was a proposal by W. P. Hobby, former governor of Texas, that the new tax bill give special treatment to business firms without military contracts so they could pay off their prewar debts.

Small Business. Hobby, the publisher of the Houston (Tex.) Post and husband of Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, director of the Woman's Army Auxiliary Corps, told the committee that there were thousands of small businesses that would not be able to pay their debts under the high tax rates proposed in the new bill.

The ideas advanced by Witherspoon and Hobby brought a suggestion from Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, that some form of credit be worked out by which taxpayers who had no pressing debts and did not wish to take advantage of exemptions for life insurance premiums could obtain post-war rebates on a portion of the taxes they had paid.

Witherspoon, who said he represented $5,000,000 insurance policyholders, suggested that deductions could be allowed for individuals on a certain percentage of their taxable income, just as a taxpayer now may charge off up to 15 percent for charity donations.

If the insurance premium payments were handled separately, he said, a maximum deduction of from $300 to $500 might be allowed. He added, however, that the plan might be expanded to include payments on debts contracted before the start of the war and to take in purchases of government bonds up to a specified amount.

Life Insurance. Witherspoon told the committee a great many people in the low income brackets would have to drop their life insurance if the high individual tax rates were placed in effect, without any relief provisions.

Similarly, Hobby said that many

Regents Sell 5,820 Acres For $94,335

Hunt Tract Near Gainesville Bought by Commerce Citizen.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. GAINESVILLE, Ga., Aug. 4.—Mose Gordon, head of the Mose Gordon Lumber Company, of Commerce, bought the Glade tract of land, formerly the James H. Hunt property, at public auction here Tuesday morning for $94,335.00. This was $85 more than the bid for the land and timber separately. The bid on the timber was $7,750 and on the land $17,500.

The tract, consisting of approximately 5,820 acres, is among the most valuable timber tracts in this section, estimated to contain 25,000,000 feet of lumber, mostly what is known as No. 1 dense pine. It also has some fine bottom land and a large lake.

Purpose of the sale was to carry out terms of the will of Mrs. Aurora S. Hunt, widow of James H. Hunt, in order that proceeds may

Doolittle's Orders Prevented Collisions Over Tokyo Palace

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Brigadier General James Doolittle's order to members of the air mission which bombed Japan not to use the Emperor's palace at Tokyo as a target probably prevented an aerial traffic jam, a flyer who participated in the raid said here today.

Lieutenant Kenneth Reddy, native of Bowie, Texas, told members of three civic clubs that "it was a pleasure, a privilege and a treat to bomb Tokyo."

"General Doolittle had given us orders not to drop any bombs on the palace in Tokyo," said Reddy, who received the Distinguished Flying Cross for his part in the raid. "If he hadn't given those orders, I imagine the air above the palace would have been crowded to the point of a traffic jam."

be used as a loan fund for worthy north Georgia boys, and terms of the sale were cash.

J. Marvin Bell, of Gainesville, members of the Board of Regents of the University of Georgia, to which institution Mrs. Hunt had deeded the property, conducted the sale.

Memory Hall Is Dedicated At Columbus

School Founders Are Honored by Addition to Library.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. COLUMBUS, Ga., Aug. 4.—Memory Hall, dedicated to the founders of the Columbus public school system and past presidents of the school board, has been completed on the lower floor of the Public Library. The beautification of the rooms, that will form a needed addition to the library, was made possible through a gift from Miss Selene McIlhenny, of Philadelphia, daughter of the late John McIlhenny, founder of the Columbus public school system.

Mr. McIlhenny, an alderman during the War Between the States, introduced a resolution in the city council which resulted in the establishment of the public school system here in March, 1867.

Although Mr. McIlhenny later moved to Philadelphia he continued to contribute to the Columbus school system and in 1915 established at $10,000 relief fund for teachers. In 1925 his son, John D. McIlhenny added another $10,000 to the fund.

The Memorial Hall contains portraits of Mr. McIlhenny and past presidents of the board of trustees.

10 in Section Gang Killed by Train

WARRENTON, Mo., Aug. 4.—(P)—Ten members of a section gang of the Wabash railroad were struck and killed by a passenger train today while working on the tracks 1 1/2 miles west of here.

The men had been working on the roadbed with air compressors and apparently failed to hear the train, which was running about 40 minutes late. It rounded a bend and smashed into the crew, hurling bodies and equipment along the right-of-way.

The dead included the gang's foreman, John Hampton, 28, of Mexico, Mo., and nine Negro laborers. Six other workers, who were off the tracks shoveling gravel, escaped without injury.

Think About This
When You See a Truck!

● The average operating taxes per for-hire truck annually is $1,090.

● The trucking industry is now supporting 3 1/2 million families in America. In Georgia alone, there are 62,800 commercial truck drivers.

● At 12 important markets in 1941, including Atlanta and Boston, New York and San Francisco, Pittsburgh and Chicago; 47.1% of all fruits and vegetables were received by truck.

In the Service They Render—
In the Taxes They Pay—
Truck Lines Merit Your Support and Friendship.

This Message to You Is Presented By a Group of Leading and Progressive Truck Lines Operating in Georgia

Fifty to seventy per cent of the loads carried by freight trucks throughout America are for WAR.
